By Their Misdeeds Shall We Truly Know Them

All day, every day, one is constrained to wonder if this beautiful little country of ours will ever escape the most horrible and troubling scandals to which the SCHEME UNITY lot have subjected us.

Recently our new prime minister and minister for finance apprised the country of the parlous state in which the last administration left our finances, and the rather dismal state of the economy.

Hard on the heels of that came word that a very 'patchy' entity, supposedly owned and operated by a very 'patchy' fellow, had somehow or other contrived to withdraw a huge amount of money, tens of millions of dollars, from the treasury just before the last general elections.

The withdraw was supposedly related to a new Basseterre High School, but nothing, absolutely NOTHING whatsoever, has been done in that regard.

And that is only one instance of such corruption.

Then, like a bombshell, the 'Hushpuppi' matter hit the airwaves yet again.

That matter has now reached a point which has placed us, yet again, under the microscope of international attention. Alas, there is escaping that matter.

As our authorities seek to cooperate with those of other nations a truly alarming and sinister fact has come to light.

Some time ago, while the former regime was in office, parliament was informed that a request for information had been received from a foreign government. Parliament was informed that the matter had been forwarded to the Attorney General's Office for advice.

Now that there has been a change of administration the nation is learning that there never was any such submission to the AG's office.

It would seem as though parliament was lied to, and lying to parliament is a very, very serious matter.

We of this newspaper urge the incumbent administration to examine this matter thoroughly, and the findings brought to the light.

If parliament was indeed lied to, there has to be very serious consequences for those who were involved.

By their misdeeds shall we truly know them!

Attorney General Says Office Looking Into Hushpuppi Sham Matter

By: Spokesman Newsroom

BASSETTERRE, St. Kitts (Wednesday 9th November 2022)- “The Attorney-General’s Office is actively taking steps to arrange for the swift transmission of the MLAT Request to ensure that the local RSCPF investigation can be concluded and, if necessary, in the views of the RSCPF and Director of Public Prosecutions, persons involved in this alleged “sham” citizenship by marriage scheme can be charged and brought to justice in St Kitts & Nevis.”

So said the new Attorney General Garth Wilkin, whose disclosure came as part of a press release-dated 8th November 2022- from his office, under the newly-elected St.Kitts-Nevis Labour Party government led by Prime Minister and Minister of National Security Dr. Terrance Drew.

His comments come in light of the recent sentencing of Ramon “Hushpuppi” Abbas, a 40-year-old Nigerian social media influencer, who has been convicted to eleven (11 years) imprisonment in the United States relating to charges in a multimillion-dollar scam. He was arrested in June 2020. Some of the money pocketed by Abbas was used to illegally get St.Kitts-Nevis citizenship and a passport through marriage as part of his activities.

Wilkin said his office will “swiftly advise the Prime Minister and Minister of National Security as to his options with respect to Hushpuppi’s citizenship.”

He informed that his office had become aware that the day before that Abbas was sentenced to be imprisoned for 135 months in a federal prison in the United States for his role in an international fraud syndicate.”

According to the Attorney General, as a part of the official press release from the Department of Justice in the U.S. Attorney’s Office for the Central District of California, the following was stated: “Approximately $50,000 of proceeds from the scheme [in which Hushpuppi duped the victim businessperson into paying approximately $330,000] were used to fraudulently acquire a St. Christopher (St. Kitts) and Nevis citizenship and a passport for Abbas through a sham marriage to a St. Kitts citizen.”

Wilkin went on to say that the Attorney-General’s Office therefore wishes to update the general public on the status of the local investigation into the said alleged “sham marriage” and resultant issuance of St. Kitts & Nevis Citizenship to “Hushpuppi”.

As highlighted by him: “In July 2021, law enforcement authorities in the United States contacted the Royal Saint Christopher and Nevis Police Force (“RSCNPF”) to provide information about Hushpuppi’s alleged criminal activities in St Kitts. A formal investigation was launched by the RSCNPF.”

He continued: “The RSCNPF, in September 2021, prepared a draft Request for Assistance from the United States in the investigation of Hushpuppi pursuant to the Mutual Legal Assistance Treaty (“MLAT Request”). This MLAT Request sought to obtain formal evidence from the United States to assist the local RSCNPF investigation, which has implicated persons residing in the United States and persons residing in St Kitts. The then Director of Public Prosecutions swiftly provided his input and the MLAT Request was then forwarded to the Attorney-General’s Office, which is the competent state entity responsible for sending MLAT Requests to foreign states/countries.”

Wilkin said the draft MLAT Request dated September 15, 2021 thereafter remained unapproved by the then Attorney-General.

“On October 21, 2022, after an inquiry into the status of the investigation by the current Attorney-General, he was provided with a copy of the drafted MLAT Request and has been in direct communication with the RSCNPF to finalize it for forwarding to the United States,” he added.

He further quoted that the Commissioner of Police who stated publicly on February 11, 2022 that the RSCPF “sent some information” in terms of doing an MLAT [Mutual and Legal Agreement Treaty] to get evidence from the United States of America. We [the Police] cannot go to make a request. Our legal person would have to ask the competent authority in the USA to ask them for the evidence. Whatever we can do here, we will do until we get the other evidence.”

The Attorney General then expressed that the RSCPF has confirmed that the investigation is ongoing, but the delayed MLAT Request has decelerated its progress.

It was further pinpointed by him that on August 5, 2021 in the National Assembly, the former Prime Minister stated that “[t]he matter of the revocation of Mr. Abbas’ citizenship has been put before our Attorney General for advice and guidance.”

“However, the Attorney-General’s Office has been unable to locate any such file,” Wilkin noted whilst highlighting that his office is actively taking steps in addressing such.

Well-known Youth Officer Passes Away Following Traffic Accident

By: Spokesman Newsroom

BASSETTERE, St.Kitts (Thursday 10th November 2022)-A well-known employee of the Department of Youth Empowerment St.Kitts has passed away after being hospitalised for over two months in the aftermath of a vehicular accident on the island.

Dead is Shenisia Puran, a resident of St.Peter's Parish who was also a new business owner in the beauty industry as a nail technician at Melanin Nail Bar, operated from her home.

On Thursday 10th November 2022,-which would have been her birthday celebration- the department via its Facebook social media page (facebook.com/SKBYouthEmpowerment) shared the information about its youngest employee which continues to see an outpour of sadness in memory of the young woman and generally over the tragic news. In relaying Puran's role model type of personality, it is said that she lived an "exemplary life."

This media house gathered that she was in her early 20s. It is understood that Puran passed away on Monday 7th November following an August 2022 traffic accident. She was hospitalised at the Intensive Care Unit at the Joseph N. France General Hospital. Other details about the accident are unclear at this time.

"Happy Birthday Shenisia! It is with profound regret that we make this post on your birthday," the opening of the post read.

The public message further stated: "It is with deep regret and sadness that we inform you that our Youth Officer, Shenisia Puran has passed away. These are words we never imagined to utter but such is the course of life. Ms. Puran joined our staff in late 2017, just in time for our Youth Month celebrations and quickly grew to become an integral part of our team. She performed her duties with integrity and professionalism whether it was organizing youth groups for training sessions or assisting with the 25 Most Remarkable Teens Programme she served well. She was very dependable and could be called upon to handle varied tasks at any time.

She was also our friend, one who would inform us about delicious eats, because Shensia loved to eat or when certain shoe stores had sale. She lived an exemplary life and only this year celebrated the one year anniversary of her very own business as a nail technician, Melanin Nail Bar. She had undergone professional training with two of the top nail techs in St. Kitts and slowly began building her business at her home. Her loss has been very hard, for many who knew her and loved her including the Department where she was our youngest employee."

The department thanked the many persons who would have shared posts for prayers on her behalf along with those who donated blood. "To a daughter, sister, friend, employee, youth officer, we say farewell until we meet again. May the lord keep you in his perfect peace. If only R.I.P meant Return If Possible. Shenisia Puran was her name [flower emoji]," the post ended.

Workers' Union President Calls On Workers Not To Wait For Issues To Join

By: Spokesman Newsroom

BASSETTERE, St. Kitts (Monday 7th November 2022)- President of the St.Kitts-Nevis Trades and Labour Union (SKNT&LU) Sydney Bridgewater is urging workers not to wait until they have an issue to see the importance of joining the longstanding organization which sees about welfare and interest of all workers.

He made the appeal during his address delivered at the recently held union's 83rd annual conference held on Sunday 30th November 2022 at the SWMC Conference Room held under the theme: 'The Time To Rebuild Is Now!'

"On this occasion, I encourage workers to join our union or any other of your choice. Do not always wait until you need a problem-solving outreach," he advised.

Bridgewater also pointed out that: "Our Union remains quite relevant and often times it is the affected workers who can testify. This organization, however, needs workers to actively strengthen the vibrancy and publicity of what being part of a Union means to you. As this year's conference theme rightly says The Time To Rebuild Is Now!"

The SKNT&LU President shared the union continues to observe the working environment therefore calls on all workers, competent authority and social partners to ensure that the welfare of workers is prioritised at all times.

"Of note, of Masses House office remains busy. The workplace challenges experienced gave workers various reasons to visit and at present, workers continue to find out comforting office space for numerous reasons," he added.

Additionally, Bridgewater stated that the union is quite aware that many workers faced many challenges during the pandemic.

"When there was the 'job for jab' debate, our union was a listening ear for workers, listening and learning, reviewing our labour laws, seeking guidance from legal counsel. Unfortunately, loop holes have been found in our labour laws which gave employers avenues to have mandates carried out in their favour thus workers were disadvantaged in many instances."

He continued: "Many of us can agree that through the challenges brought on by the pandemic, we have discovered many lessons. On a personal level, on a professional level and on a national level or otherwise, we can all speak with each other in sharing testimonies about the teachings."

Bridgewater observed the need for the Labour Code document for St.Kitts and Nevis to be passed in parliament saying: "One thing is for certain is that there is need for the Labour Code Document to be passed in parliament. Workers in the country for years have been lamenting that the existing labour laws are BASSETERRE, ST. KITTS, November 6, 2022 (MMS-SKN) — Relationship between the Federation of St. Kitts and Nevis and the Republic of China (Taiwan) which is going into its fortieth year is one that has tremendously benefitted the Federation in diverse areas of human endeavour, and the three-day 2022 Taiwan Expo in St. Kitts and Nevis is a testament to that fact.

“The relationship with Taiwan is now 39 years and going strong,” said Deputy Prime Minister, the Hon Dr Geoffrey Hanley. “And as we look forward to our fortieth anniversary next year, I am indeed proud to say that I am a Kittitian and I value the many contributions that we have gained as a Federation as a result of this relationship, and I can only imagine that it will grow from strength to strength.”

The Deputy Prime Minister made the remarks on behalf of Prime Minister and Minister of Finance et al, the Hon Dr Terrance Drew, on Saturday November 5 at a ceremony held at the St. Kitts Marriott Resort to officially open the 2022 Taiwan Expo in St. Kitts Nevis.

Twenty-six Taiwanese companies are taking part in the exhibition, and two of them who are specialised in solar energy solutions, and hardware tools such as diamond cutters and sharpeners have a physical representation. The other 24 Taiwanese entrepreneurs are participating virtually but have sent their products and catalogues, and have local personnel representing them on the ground.

“Over the next three days I can only imagine that we will be engaged with innovation and technology at its highest,” observed Dr Hanley. “Having had the opportunity to visit Taiwan and see those many factories and those malls, we will be in for a good treat. But what is even more exciting for me is the fact that our locals are getting an opportunity to showcase their business and their skills.”

Eight local businesses have also been given the opportunity to exhibit at the 2022 Taiwan Expo in St. Kitts and Nevis, which closes at 4:00 p.m. on Monday November 7. These are Hibiscus Spirits; Sugar Town Organics; Sassy V. Collectibles; The Emerald; SKNHOSTING; Nature’s Best; Espo Water Solutions; and Esthetics Beauty Parlor.

Without disclosing the name of the business, the Hon Dr Hanley said: “A few days ago getting a sneak peek on what is happening by one of our providers here trying to sell something to the Ministry of Education, after five minutes of demonstration I told the PS we will get this. So I want to commend our local entrepreneurs and it is time to ask them to continue to jump out of the box.”

The Hon Dr Hanley who is also the Minister of Education, Youth Empowerment, Social Development, Gender Affairs, Aging and Disabilities, Ecclesiastical and Faith-based Affairs, and Housing and Human Settlement, also commented on the other areas where the Federation has been benefitting as a direct result of the relationship between the two countries.

“On behalf of the government I want to wish the Ambassador, you and your Taiwan country and your staff here, the very best and thank you for all that you have done, continue to do, and will be doing going forward for our Federation,” said the Deputy Prime Minister. “You heard it from the Senior Minister (Hon Dr Denzil Douglas) we have benefitted with education, in health, in sports, in infrastructure - any area you can think of, we have benefitted.”

Also making remarks at the opening ceremony was Minister of Foreign Affairs, International Trade, Industry, Commerce and Consumer Affairs, Economic Development and Investment, the Hon Dr Denzil L. Douglas, who also hailed the good relationship between the Federation of St. Kitts and Nevis and the Republic of China (Taiwan).

“We continue to benefit from your scholarship programme, Mr Ambassador, and now boast a cadre of professionals in various fields who have graduated from the best universities in Taiwan,” stated the Honourable Minister of Foreign Affairs. “It was just recently that we witnessed eleven students being awarded scholarships for the academic year 2022/2023. This for us is symbolic as we continue to invest in our youth who are our nation’s future.”

Resident Ambassador of the Republic of China (Taiwan) to the Federation of St. Kitts and Nevis, His Excellency Michael Lin, delivered welcome remarks at the opening ceremony which was chaired by Mr Damien I-Ching Liu, Third Secretary at the Embassy of the Republic of China (Taiwan) in St. Kitts and Nevis.

Present at the opening ceremony included Public Works et al, the Hon Konris Maynard; Attorney General and Minister of Justice and Legal Affairs, Hon Garth Wilkin, and Mrs Wilkin; and Cabinet Secretary, Dr Marcus L. Natta.

Others were Permanent Secretary in the Ministry of International Trade, Industry, Commerce and Consumer Affairs, Mrs Jasemin Weekes; Ambassador His Excellency Leon Natta-Nelson; Director General of SKNIS, Mr Lesroy Williams; and First Prime Minister the Rt. Excellent and Rt. Hon Sir Dr Kennedy Simmonds, and Lady Simmonds.

2022 Taiwan Expo will help revitalise manufacturing sector, says Dr Douglas Minister of Foreign Affairs, International Trade, Industry, Commerce and Consumer Affairs, Economic Development and Investment, Rt. Hon Dr Denzil L. Douglas, delivering remarks at the opening ceremony at the St. Kitts Marriott Resort.

BASSETTERE, ST. KITTS, November 6, 2022 (MMS-SKN) — Participation of local businesses at the 2022 Taiwan Expo in St. Kitts and Nevis is an added advantage to the country coming in the wake of a recent approval by Cabinet of St. Kitts and Nevis, on the roll-out of a revised national manufacturing strategy aimed at fostering the manufacturing sector.

Those were the sentiments of the former Prime Minister of St. Kitts and Nevis and the current Minister of Foreign Affairs, International Trade, Industry, Commerce and Consumer Affairs, Economic Development and Investment, Rt. Hon Dr Denzil L. Douglas, as he delivered remarks at the exhibition's opening ceremony on Saturday November 5 at the St. Kitts Marriott Resort.

"As the Minister with responsibility for Industry and Commerce, I cannot overstate my immense excitement at this Expo 2022, and those of you who are listening and you are not here, please run, come hurriedly and see what wonderful things we have here on display," pleaded the Hon Dr Douglas.

The three-day Taiwan Expo has twenty six companies from Taiwan that are taking part, two have a physical presence even though staff of one of the two companies had not arrived by Saturday, and another 24 that were exhibiting virtually but with local staff assisting in providing more information. Also taking part are eight local businesses from St. Kitts and Nevis, which were invited to make use of some booth space and promote their products.

"My excitement is further heightened when I see our very own local businesses being afforded the opportunity to showcase their products free of cost, of course," added Dr Douglas. "I believe at least eight of our local businesses will be featured over the next few days during this Expo. It says to me that we are indeed making great strides in this Federation and this culture of business development must be encouraged at all times."

The Rt. Hon Dr Douglas who accompanied Prime Minister the Hon Dr Terrance Drew on his first official state to the Republic of China (Taiwan) in a delegation that left on the same day in the afternoon, told the Taiwanese Resident Ambassador to the Federation of St. Kitts and Nevis, His Excellency Michael Lin, that relationship between the two countries has been of tremendous benefit.

"This government, of which I am a part, is always thrilled whenever there is an opportunity to collaborate with you our own partners of the Republic of China on Taiwan in our mutual quest to building partnerships in the areas of business, tourism, trade, services, and culture, and cultural reciprocity among other areas," said the Hon Dr Douglas.

Collaborative efforts between St. Kitts and Nevis and Taiwan in the past have helped to improve food production and preservation in the Federation via an initiative called the 'Food Processing Commercialisation Development Programme', he said. The venture which involves processing foods such as breadfruit, green banana, flour, pumpkin, guava cheese among others provide a tremendous potential not only through the two countries' agriculture and tourism sectors, but the spinoffs have been phenomenal.

Referring to the 26 Taiwanese businesses, the Honourable Minister of Industry and Commerce said he envisages opportunities to discuss possible business cooperation, and opportunities to foster and facilitate closer trade ties between the partners. He said it is a welcome opportunity for kick-starting and re-energising the potential for the local manufacturing sector, and encouraged the private sector present participating to also seek great possibilities that will emanate from the exhibition.

Saying that the manufacturing sector remains high on the government's agenda given its overall contribution to the economy, he noted that only a few days ago the Cabinet gave its nod of approval on the roll-out of a revised national manufacturing strategy aimed at fostering the manufacturing sector, which will cover the period 2022 to 2027, and will be implemented shortly.

"The strategy identifies solutions and recommendations that will continue to make the Federation's manufacturing sector competitive, productive, and the creator of more jobs for the citizens and residents of St. Kitts and Nevis," said Hon Dr Douglas. "This I believe is definitely a step in the right direction, and I notice the Deputy Prime Minister (the Hon Dr Geoffrey Hanley) is nodding."

The opening ceremony of the three-day 2022 Taiwan Expo in St. Kitts and Nevis, which was coordinated by Mr Damien I-Ching Liu, Third

How A Maverick Brazil Lawmaker Helped Lula Beat Bolsonaro's Propaganda Machine

By Gabriel Stargardter

RIO DE JANEIRO, 10 November (Reuters) - To bring down far-right Brazilian President Jair Bolsonaro, Andre Janones had to fight fire with fire.

The little-known 38-year-old lawmaker was running a longshot presidential campaign until he joined forces in August with President-elect Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva, adding bite to the leftist's campaign with his raw, no-holds-barred approach to online politics.

Janones acknowledged in an interview that his use of ad hominem attacks, exaggerations, and even physical confrontations with opponents, had not been constructive for public discourse. But he said that, in order to win and prevent the president from consolidating his conservative agenda, Brazil's left needed to steal a page from Bolsonaro's playbook.

"This debate impoverishes democracy. It's a scrappy debate, in which you provoke, you use debauchery, you joke around," said Janones, who denied accusations that he uses fake news. "But we need to save democracy. Look at the scenario we're living in."

The son of a domestic worker and a wheelchair-bound father from a small city in the interior of Brazil, Janones paid his way through law school by working as a bus fare collector and only became a federal lawmaker in 2019.

His profile surged in recent months as he helped the 77-year-old Lula retool his communication strategy, pairing up on digital livestreams with the lawmakers' roughly 14 million followers on social media, including younger and poorer voters.

Janones also raised eyebrows among some in Lula's Workers Party (PT) for his vulgar attacks on Bolsonaro and his allies. He came in for public scorn after an altercation with a former environment minister in the audience of a televised debate.

It remains unclear how Lula plans to use Janones and his digital shock troops, who helped to eke out a narrow electoral win but could complicate the leftist's delicate coalition-building in Congress, where rightwing parties gained seats.

Janones said he would accept any job Lula offered him.

In a meeting with the president-elect last week, he said Lula encouraged him "to continue with a strong and mobilized communication strategy during this government".

One senior Lula aide defended the role of Janones, saying he could tread where the official campaign did not dare. He was the most prominent Lula ally to drop the gloves in a bruising run-off race that took even Bolsonaro's campaign by surprise.

In recent years Brazil's Supreme Court has launched probes into Bolsonaro and his so-called 'Cabinet of Hate' for allegedly using public resources to spread misinformation online.

Bolsonaro's office did not respond to request for comment. He has previously called the Supreme Court probes a case of judicial overreach aimed at censoring right-wing voices.

Octavio Guedes, a journalist and political commentator, said Janones and his efforts to confront Bolsonaro in the digital

President Tsai Receives St Kitts and Nevis PM Terrance Drew

President Tsai Ing-wen held bilateral talks with St Kitts and Nevis Prime Minister Terrance Drew and his delegation on Tuesday 8 November at The Presidential Office in Taipei City, spotlighting the government's commitment to deepening partnership with the Caribbean ally.

Taiwan and St Kitts and Nevis have faced the challenges of the pandemic together, Tsai said. The government looks forward to further cooperation with the Caribbean ally to revitalize the tourism sectors for both, she added.

Tsai took the opportunity to thank St Kitts and Nevis for its longstanding backing for Taiwan's international participation. Drew's voice of support for the country at this year's UN General Assembly was deeply appreciated, she said.

The president expressed congratulations to Donya Lynex Francis, the new St Kitts and Nevis ambassador to The ROC (Taiwan).

A copy of credentials from Francis was accepted by Tsai before the talks.

In response Drew reaffirmed St Kitts and Nevis' commitment to deepening diplomatic relations which were established in 1983. The relationship between Taiwan and St Kitts and Nevis will continue growing from strength to strength and elevating the population to unprecedented heights of development, he added.

The PM also anticipated that more young people from St Kitts and Nevis would receive their tertiary education in Taiwan, as well as aiming to further advance healthcare infrastructure and service delivery in his position as minister with responsibility for health and wellness.

Following the talks Tsai held an official banquet for the delegation, and stated that the visit marked a milestone in bilateral cooperation and would bring further benefits to both sides.

In a tweet on its official Twitter account, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs said: "At the banquet for #StKittsAndNevis PM Dr Drew & his delegation, Minister Wu recalled fond memories of his 2019 visit to our breathtaking #Caribbean ally, expressed gratitude for its long-standing support of #Taiwan & toasted to the enduring friendship between our countries."

Why Maradonas ‘Hand Of God’ Goal Is Priceless - And Unforgettable

By Dr Stefan Szymanski, PhD, University of Michigan

As the ball that Maradona’s fist helped on its way to the back of the net - with some divine help - goes up for auction, a scholar of soccer (football) explains why that goal means so much.

22 June 1985 - Mexico City: Argentina player Diego Maradona outjumps England goalkeeper Peter Shilton to score with his ‘Hand of God’ goal as England defenders Kenny Sansom (top) Gary Stevens (c) and Terry Fenwick look on during the 1986 FIFA World Cup Quarter Final at the Azteca Stadium. (American) Football has ‘The Catch’, baseball has ‘The Shot Heard ‘Round the World’, and basketball has ‘The Block’.

For soccer (international football), it is Diego Maradona’s ‘Hand of God’ - a sporting moment captured in time, the mere mention of which can conjure up strong emotions among supporters.

ONLINE ADVOCACY

After getting his law degree, Janones advocated for locals in his hometown of Ituiutaba, in Minas Gerais state, who struggled with the public healthcare system. Over the course of a decade he filmed ‘sensationalized’ videos attacking the system’s failures.

“I would alter my voice, shouting, fighting, but obliging the state to fulfill the courts’ rulings,” he said. “And it started to work. It started saving lives.”

In 2018, when a truckers’ strike ground Brazil to a halt, Janones found a new cause. One video he recorded on their behalf got 60 million views. By the end of the year, he was elected a federal lawmaker.

Bolsonaro, another savvy politician who was quick to adopt the truckers’ cause, was elected president that same year, using social media to tap into anger with graft scandals and economic mismanagement under PT governments.

“They understood much faster than

Such is its legacy that some 36 years after bouncing into the back of the net, the soccer ball involved is set to be sold at auction on 16 November 2022, at an expected price of up to US$3.3 million.

So why does this goal, which should not even have been a goal, carry so much significance?

As an economist who studies sport, I’ve long believed that you have to grasp the cultural significance to understand the financial dimension of sports. This goal was one of soccer’s most iconic events for a number of reasons.

1. It’s about the controversy

The goal in question was scored by Argentinian great Maradona against England in the quarterfinals of the 1986 World Cup. It was the second half, no goals had been scored, and Argentina’s team was passing the ball around the edge of the England penalty box.

England midfielder Steve Hodge tried to clear the ball but only succeeded in kicking high above the goalkeeper. Normally one would expect the goalkeeper to catch it, especially against the 5-foot-5-inch Maradona. But somehow the ball ended up in the back of the net.

At first, it seemed that Maradona had headed the ball, but replays clearly showed him steering the ball with his clenched fist. This was three decades before the use of video assistant referee, or VAR, in soccer.

There was no way to review. The referee’s vision was blocked, and he looked to the linesman for guidance - but the linesman saw nothing wrong, and the goal was allowed to stand.

Speaking after the game, Maradona told reporters that the goal was scored “un poco con la cabeza de Maradona y otro poco con la mano de Dios,” or, in the English translation, “a little with the head of Maradona and a little with the hand of God.”

The phrase stuck, and with it the legend of the goal.

2. It’s really about that second goal

The Argentina team of 1986 was not a great team. Rather, it was an average team combined with the greatest player in the world at the time, and many would say the most talented footballer ever to grace a pitch.

England were probably a better team if you took Maradona out of the game. So that is what England’s defenders tried to do: shut him out by fair means or foul. England’s plan was to make it the responsibility of almost every player on the field to track him and try to stop him from advancing. They tried, but it was impossible.

Four minutes after the first goal, Maradona took the ball and at lightning pace skipped past three defenders and the England goalkeeper to score again. The goal was voted “the goal of the (20th) century” in a 2002 FIFA poll.

Argentina would go on to win the final in what is still known as ‘Maradona’s World Cup’.

3. No, it’s all about Argentina’s revenge!

There was no escaping the political context of the game - or the goal. In 1982 Argentina invaded the Falkland Islands, or Las Malvinas - the name you use us, back in 2018, that the secret to social media is who defines the debate,” said Janones, referring to Bolsonaro’s aggressive, grassroots communications strategy led by his son Carlos.

He credited Bolsonaro’s team with a more agile online strategy, including an array of official and unofficial right-wing channels putting out the same coordinated message.

But Janones’ professional admiration has not prevented him from aiming below the belt: He has accused Bolsonaro of being a pedophile, and suggested he struck a secret deal with the Masons to win the election.

Old videos of Bolsonaro speaking at Masonic lodges, considered pagan temples by some of Brazil’s evangelical Christians, were recirculated online, while an anecdote he told on a podcast about visiting the home of adolescent Venezuelan girls, in which he seemed to imply they were sex workers, was used to accuse him of pedophilia.

Bolsonaro has denied any association with pagan rituals and branded the insinuations of pedophilia as slanderous lies, while also apologizing for his remarks about the teenage girls.

Despite his hell-raising, Janones has not lost sight of digital media as a public service. During the pandemic, as Bolsonaro rolled out emergency welfare for Brazil’s poor, Janones used live video addresses on social media to guide followers through the bureaucratic steps to access the money.

Brenda da Silva, a 22-year-old nanny from Sao Goncalo, in Rio de Janeiro state, said she began following Janones during the pandemic when she heard from friends, some of whom had lost their jobs, about his videos explaining how to access the aid.

“In the moment that people most needed help, he was there,” she said.

Cuban And US Officials Meet In Havana On Consular Services

By Megan Janetsky

HAVANA (AP) - Cuban and State Department officials met in Havana on Wednesday to discuss the expansion of consular and visa services on the island.

The meeting is the latest in a series of friendly exchanges between the two governments, which share an historically icy relationship.

Cuba issued a brief statement confirming the meeting took place.

The US delegation included Rena Bitter, assistant secretary of state for consular affairs, and Ur Mendoza Jaddou, director of US citizenship and immigration Services.

The US Embassy closed in 2017 following a series of health incidents. While a full reopening has yet to be announced, US officials have said visa processing would resume in January.

The move comes amid the biggest flight of Cubans from the island in decades. Nearly 221,000 Cubans were encountered by migration enforcement on the US-Mexico border in fiscal year 2022. That was a 471% increase from the year before, according to US Customs and Border Protection data.

A State Department official, who spoke on condition of anonymity, told The Associated Press that Washington's delegation also discussed concerns about human rights in Cuba. The official said Bitter "urged the Cuban government to unconditionally release all political prisoners."

determines your allegiance - a British overseas territory some 300 miles off the Argentinian coast.

The islands had been occupied by the British since 1833, and former Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher cemented her image as 'The Iron Lady' by sending a military task force 8,000 miles across The Atlantic to recapture the islands. The UK claimed its primary motivation was respecting the self-determination of the islanders, but valuable fishing rights and a seat at the table in the administration of the Antarctic were also at stake. Among the neutrals there was considerable sympathy for the Argentine cause in what seemed like an anachronistic act of colonial imperialism by the British.

The humiliation for Argentinian generals likely hastened the end of the military dictatorship and the restoration of democracy in Argentina. But it bred resentment against the English - Argentinians believe in their hearts that Las Malvinas belong to them, not to

Britain - and that colored the build-up to the 1986 game, as Maradona later recalled in his memoir 'Yo Soy El Diego', or 'I Am The Diego':

"Somehow we blamed the English players for everything that had happened, for everything that the Argentinian people had suffered ... we were defending our flag, the dead kids, the survivors."

4. OK, it's because Diego Maradona really is the GOAT

Few players have stamped their presence on a World Cup quite like Maradona. His performance in the England game stands as a memorial to his greatness, and the phrase 'Hand of God' neatly puts his name in the same sentence as divinity.

It wasn't a one-off - the entire tournament became a showground for his outrageous skill - and he fittingly raised the trophy at the end.

But Maradona - who died in 2020 at age 60 - was also a troubled genius. A child of the slums of Buenos Aires, he never lost the anxiety that he would not receive his due. He became addicted to drugs - potentially as a result of all the painkillers he needed to keep playing in an era in which defenders were prone to bone-crunching tackles - and struggled with cocaine.

He was frequently abusive toward the media, was accused of assaulting one girlfriend, and he was alleged to have close connections to the mafia.

But for most soccer enthusiasts, none of this really detracts from his greatness as a player.

There are simply some players - a very small number indeed - whose story transcends right and wrong, and whose acts are forever remembered, like the heroes of ancient Greek epics.

Maradona is one such player. Like Achilles or Odysseus, his name will live on, remembered in 'The Hand of God' goal.

POSSIBILITY. OPPORTUNITY AND THE SKNLP

By: FAIR SHARE FOR ALL

For some of us St. Kitts-Nevis Labour Party supporters, the firing squad is taking too long. We want blood. We want revenge. We want all those who made our lives a living hell for the past seven years to feel the might of our hands. And as far as we are concerned, these people should have been sent home in the first week.

Common sense should force us to question why some people who wreaked havoc on our beloved federation are still working. I cannot tell my comrades to refrain from calling for the dismissal of certain Unity terrorists. But if these people are on contracts that will end by year end or in the first quarter of next year, why do we want our government to fire them and risk all sorts of court battles which we will lose, when we can simply wait for their contracts to expire naturally?

Perhaps it is that the foot soldiers don't know. They don't have the information. So perhaps the ministers need to ensure that key people in the constituencies are always in the loop so that rumblings and grumbings and mumblings are dealt with expeditiously.

For some comrades who have been waiting for seven years for something to happen for them, three months more seem like an eternity. That is why ministers need to be in constant communication with their constituents. Let them know what is happening. Let them know that something is being worked out for them. And if what is being requested of the politician is illegal or impossible, let them know that too.

Comrades and friends, we cannot have condemned the atrocities of Unity, but now that we are in government, we want to do the same thing. I don't care how many votes are in the house. The SKNLP ministers must not get involved in anything that we campaigned against because it is wrong but now hypocritically and conveniently want to call wrong right.

That is one of the main criticisms that Unity faced daily. Credibility is critical. Once a politician is no longer credible, it's all downhill after that. While I do not wish to spend too much time on the former ministers, it is worth reflecting on how many times their credibility was called into question.

Up to now the federation doesn't know if Venezuela gave us US$16,000,000.00 or EC$16,000,000.00. Up to now we don't know what happened to the US$800,000.00 that were appropriated and sent somewhere to buy COVID-19 vaccines. Up to now we don't know how it is possible that a quarter million-dollar hut was being built by a minister's right-hand man and he claimed that he knew nothing about it.

There is the shoes and watch scandal. The Police Credit Union scandal. The MRI scandal. The Stem Cell scandal. The herpes scandal. The Hushpuppi scandal. All these and more challenged the credibility of the Unity government ministers.

Our SKNLP candidates must remain honest. They must be sincere. They must always try to be the same people they were when they were begging the electorate for their support because before we know it, 2027 will be upon us. I know that because we are all human, mistakes will be made. Scandals, however, are not mistakes.

The people voted overwhelmingly to reject Unity. Not in recent times have all successful candidates won every single box in every single polling station. I am not sure that such a feat can be repeated. I am however convinced that the SKNLP can rule for more than two terms.

The government knows that job creation is critical. And job creation by the government does not mean working for government. The government must provide the environment to enable job creation. Entrepreneurship must be aggressively encouraged. Start up capital must be easily accessible. And while no one can predict which businesses will succeed or fail, I do not believe that everyone should go into the car rental business, for example.

This small enterprise department must also aggressively monitor all beneficiaries of any loan/grant to ensure that the owners are doing their best to succeed. The aim is for these new business owners to be able to live comfortably from their businesses. In addition, existing small businesses should have the same easy access to any loan/grant being provided by the government.

We have a lot of people with ideas who just want an opportunity. If the Dr Terrance Drew-led SKNLP government can help people to turn their dreams into viable realities, we would be the party of real change and progress that we have always envisaged for the federation.

T20 World Cup: England beat India to storm into World Cup final

By Matthew Henry

BBC Sport at the Adelaide Oval
From the sectionCricket

ICC Men's T20 World Cup semi-final, Adelaide
India 168-6 (20 overs): Hardik 63 (33), Kohli 50 (40); Jordan 3-43
England 170-0 (16 overs): Buttler 80* (49), Hales 86* (47)
England won by 10 wickets

England stormed into the Men's T20 World Cup final with a sensational 10-wicket demolition of India at the Adelaide Oval.

Openers Jos Buttler and Alex Hales overcame a feverish India-supporting atmosphere and chased 169 without the loss of a wicket.

They romped home with a massive 24 balls to spare to set up a final against Pakistan on Sunday and seal one of England's greatest white-ball wins.

Hales ended 86 not out from 47 and Buttler unbeaten on 80 from 49, the England skipper clinching the match with the pair's 10th six.

Earlier, despite 50 from Virat Kohli, England's bowlers restricted India well until Hardik Pandya's 63 from 33 balls powered his side to what had looked a testing score.

But Hales, recalled after more than three years in the international wilderness, gave England a rapid start and Buttler continued the onslaught.

Their stand of 170 is a record in a men's T20 World Cup, beating the 168 shared by South Africa's Quinton de Kock and Rilee Rossouw in their Super 12 game against Bangladesh last month.

It denies the tournament what would have been a mouth-watering India-Pakistan finale, instead ensuring a repeat of the famous 1992 50-over World Cup final at the Melbourne Cricket Ground (MCG).

England roar into Sunday's final

This was supposed to be the night India joined their great rivals in what would have been one of the great sporting finals.

A frenzied crowd was expectant but by the end, a small pocket of England fans were jubilant, the quietened India supporters drifting away.

England's bowling effort, without Mark Wood because of injury and up against India's batting line-up of superstars, was tidy and disciplined, until they were knocked off course by Hardik's late blitz.

The batting was simply stunning.

The imperious Buttler settled any nerves by taking three fours from the first over before he and Hales dispatched both pace and spin in seemingly effortless fashion.

As the final majestic strike cleared the fielder and boundary at long-on, Buttler whipped off his helmet and roared with delight.

A campaign that was floundering after defeat by Ireland two weeks ago could still end in glory.

Pakistan, who have produced their own remarkable recovery to reach the showpiece, were beaten 4-3 by England in a seven-match T20 series in their own backyard last month.

Hales repays all faith

Eleven overs into the chase India's ragged fielders looked beaten, the ball repeatedly travelling to, or over, the boundary rope.

Buttler was dropped on 66 at mid-off by Suryakumar Yadav, with the ball ricocheting off his body and beyond Kohli for four, but by then the contest was over.

Having opted to chase on a used pitch, Hales and Buttler took on Adelaide's short square boundaries to race along consistently at 10 runs per over.

They took 63 from the powerplay - a clear contrast to India's 38-1 - and did not look back.

This was Hales' greatest night in his England career, a career that looked over when he was unceremoniously dropped on the eve of the 2019 World Cup before being recalled for this tournament after the injury to Jonny Bairstow.

He slog-swept spinners Axar Patel and Ravichandran Ashwin and cleanly struck the pace bowlers back over their head for seven sixes.

After a quick start, Buttler settled into the supporting role before unleashing his ramps and power strokes in a canter to the finish line.

Bowlers restrict before Hardik's onslaught

England, who were missing the wicket-taking threat of Wood's searing pace, were excellent in restricting India

CWI lauds Shivnarine Chanderpaul - inducted into ICC Hall of Fame

Tuesday, 8 November 2022 - ST JOHN'S, Antigua - West Indies cricket legend Shivnarine Chanderpaul was announced as one of the new members of International Cricket Council's (ICC) Hall of Fame on Tuesday afternoon in Australia (Monday night Caribbean Time). He has joined the list of fellow cricketing icons who have received this prestigious honour. The ICC announced Chanderpaul will be inducted in the Hall of Fame alongside Pakistan legendary leg-spinner Abdul Qadir and England trailblazer Charlotte Edwards.

The left-handed Chanderpaul played at the international level for over to two decades and is among the leading run-scorers in the game's history. He made his Test debut in 1994 at age 19 against England at Bourda in his native Guyana. He played 164 Test matches - the most by a West Indian - and scored 11,867 runs at an average of 51.37, which included 30 centuries.

He also played 268 One-Day Internationals and made

8,778 runs with 11 centuries at an average of 41.60; while in 22 T20 Internationals he made 343 runs. His first-class career was outstanding with 27,545 runs in 385 matches at an average of over 53. He had 77 centuries including a career-best of 303 not out for Guyana against Jamaica.

Cricket West Indies (CWI) President and ICC Director, Ricky Skerritt, paid tribute to Chanderpaul.

"On behalf of all West Indies cricket stakeholders, I congratulate Shivnarine 'Shiv' Chanderpaul for receiving the highest honor of his career to date. Shiv's story exemplifies all that is good about him and the game of cricket - his hard work, commitment, adaptability and his resulting growth and achievements on and off the field. His love for the game is unmatched, and he demonstrated throughout his two decades on the field that he was the man for all seasons."

"From the early days in the Under-19 set-up in Guyana shiv showcased his immense batting talent. He honed his skills and worked tirelessly to become the number 1 ranked batsman in the world. He embodied the statement 'heights of great men reach and kept were not attained by sudden flight'. Shiv toiled hard to improve and at every stage was able to re-invent his game to meet the demands. We salute Shiv for his immense contribution to West Indies cricket and world cricket."

Chris Woakes got one to rise off a length and take KL Rahul's edge in the second over, Rohit Sharma was caught at deep mid-wicket off Wood's replacement Chris Jordan for 27 off 28 balls and when dangerman Yadav holed out at deep point off Adil Rashid for 14, India were 75-3 in the 12th over.

Kohli's first boundary was a glorious drive for six over extra cover but the former captain was unable to find top gear, Rashid particularly effective through the middle with a four-over spell that cost only 20.

Hardik hit back-to-back sixes off Jordan - one a short ball pummelled over mid-wicket and the next a full ball sensationally flicked off his pads - before helping take 22 from the penultimate over bowled by Sam Curran.

Eighty runs came from the last seven overs and 47 from the final three but in truth had Hardik added another 30, it would not have been enough.
