Hurricane Beryl - A Wake-Up Call for the Region

Hurricane Beryl has made its destructive historic mark as the first named storm of the 2024 Atlantic Hurricane Season and being a major one at that, leaving a trail of destruction in the Caribbean region its wake, impacting islands like Jamaica, Carriacou-Grenada, Barbados and St. Vincent and the Grenadines. Reports of loss of life and significant damage to property have sent shockwaves and sadness throughout the region, underscoring the urgency of preparedness and vigilance.

Such tragedy serves as a stark reminder-including for us here in St. Kitts and Nevis- that we must not become complacent in the face of nature's fury.

A recent editorial of this publication rightly emphasized the need for serious preparation. The message is clear: we cannot afford to take these threats lightly. Hurricane Beryl has provided us with an immediate wake-up call, setting a tone for what we might expect in the coming months. The images and stories emerging in our region are heartbreaking, yet such also highlight the importance of taking proactive measures to protect ourselves and our communities.

Disturbingly, recent trends on social media reveal a troubling disregard for safety during such storms. Videos and photos of individuals treating these events as opportunities for amusement-holding on to property, refusing to evacuate, or even engaging in reckless behavior-circulate widely. This carelessness not only endangers those involved but also sets a dangerous precedent for others. We have seen enough examples of the devastating consequences of such actions. The loss of lives and destruction of property should serve as sobering reminders of the seriousness of these natural disasters.

As a region, we pride ourselves on our resilience and strength in the face of adversity. However, true resilience is demonstrated through preparedness and responsible action, not by tempting fate. We must heed the lessons of Hurricane Beryl and ensure that we are adequately prepared for future storms. This means having well-thought-out emergency plans, securing our homes, and taking evacuation orders seriously.

Let us all take the threat of natural disasters seriously and approach the storm season with a renewed sense of purpose and responsibility. By doing so, we honor those who have suffered and ensure that we are better equipped to weather the storms ahead.

Our resilience as a people is not just about enduring hardship but also about taking the necessary steps to minimize its impact. It is time to act with good sense and foresight, ensuring the safety and well-being of our communities.

Met Officer Comments On ‘Scary Thought’ Of Hurricane Peak Season

By: Spokesman Newsroom

BASSETERRE, St. Kitts (Wednesday 3rd July 2024) - “I’m scared to even think about the true peak of the hurricane season...we never had a category 5 hurricane develop late June, early July in the Atlantic; never had one.”

So said Senior Meteorological Officer of the St. Kitts Met Office, Elmo Burke, in expressing his concerns about the upcoming peak of the hurricane season during a live appearance on Freedom FM’s ‘SKN Today’ aired on Tuesday 2nd July 2024, hosted by media personality Eboni Brandon.

He touched on the intensity of Hurricane Beryl, a Category 5 storm that traversed the Caribbean unusually early in the season.

“This is the first time in history that we have ever had a category five storm traversing the Caribbean so early in the season,” he stated. Burke noted the rapid intensification of the storm, which transformed from a depression to a major hurricane in just 42 hours, emphasizing the unusually warm sea conditions attributed to climate change.

“What we’re seeing is what we would normally see happening in late August-September, and to see this moving from a depression to a category four major hurricane within 42 hours or so is insane, and it’s testament that the seas are so, so warm,” Burke explained. “We keep saying this because of climate change right now, the sea conditions are so, so warm, especially in the Atlantic, that it’s ripe for rapid intensification as long as the other conditions are favourable.”

Despite preparations by state agencies, he expressed concerns over community complacency.

“However, it’s sad to say I get the impression that there’s a level of complacency still within a lot of persons within the community,” he said. “Recognizing that we haven’t been hit with a hurricane or a storm in so long; it’s almost over 10 years since a storm really done any major damage to us here in St. Kitts and Nevis.”

Burke detailed the current meteorological conditions, explaining how the high-pressure system in the Atlantic is steering potential storms towards the island chain.

“What we’re looking at in terms of the dominance of the high-pressure system, the dominance of the high-pressure system in the Atlantic is steering whatever comes across the Atlantic straight to the island chain, so somebody is likely to be impacted,” he noted.

He also addressed another potential storm system that is forecasted to the third named storm of the season.

“There is the system still there, however, because of some of the dust and because Beryl now would have turned up a lot of this warm water, it kind of would have soaked up some of that fuel so to speak, so the chances of it developing is relatively lower than what we anticipated at the start of the week. However, at the same time, it’s still gonna bring some unsettled weather to almost the same set of islands.”

When quizzed about the outlook for the peak of the hurricane season, the met officer had this to say: “I’m scared to even think about the true peak of the hurricane season; what’s expected to happen because we’re in uncharted territory,” Burke admitted. “As I said earlier, we never had a category 5 hurricane develop late June, early July in the Atlantic; never had one.”

Burke emphasized the importance of preparedness, citing Hurricane Beryl as a clear indication of the devastation that unprepared communities could face.

“We have to be prepared because Beryl is clearly an indication that if you’re not prepared adequately, it can be devastating,” he stressed.

Rick Ross Brings Curtain Down On Music Festival

By: Spokesman Newsroom

BASSETTERRE, St. Kitts (Monday 1st July 2024)-The 26th edition of the three-night St. Kitts Music Festival (27th to 29th June) concluded with an electrifying performance by international hip-hop superstar Rick Ross at the Warner Park Cricket Stadium in Basseterre.

The Maybach Music label American rapper captivated the audience with an energetic flow, performing hits like 'Diced Pineapples', 'Hustlin' and 'BMF', backed by his DJ in delivering an over 30-minute show that left scores fans and music lovers in awe during the wee hours of Sunday 30th June 2024.

The closing night of the festival also featured stellar performances from well-known U.S R&B entertainer Mary J.

Blige, popular Jamaican dancehall sensation 450, legendary U.S R&B artist Freddie Jackson, Remone Watson-the 2023 Jamaica Digicel Rising Star champion, the groovy jazz Nicholas Brancker Band from Barbados, Jamaican reggae star Tony Rebel, and Briannagh D 22-year-old songstress with St. Kitts-Nevis roots (based in the U.S), ensuring a memorable end to a spectacular event.

Prime Minister Dr. Terrance Drew, when quizzed about this year's music festival at the Round Table held on Tuesday, 2nd July 2024, praised the event's success.

"The music festival was started in the 90s. It's a very long-standing music festival that keeps getting better. The last iteration of the music festival was very, very successful. All three nights were attended. They had great attendance. The people came out in their numbers," he said.

Dr. Drew highlighted the festival's popularity, noting, "As one person told me, you look like you have more people in the VIP than you have in the regular, and I know that, you know, in the VIP you have to pay a substantial amount to be there. But I think everybody had an opportunity to be at the St. Kitts Music Festival."

Reflecting on his participation, Dr. Drew shared, "I myself participated all nights of the music festival. I came back from Taiwan the Thursday and I was able to participate the very Thursday night, and I did have an excellent time during the Music Festival. So I want to take this opportunity to congratulate the Minister and her team for an excellent presentation of the music festival this year."

He also acknowledged the success of related events, stating, "I also want to add that White Sands at Carambola was very successful as well. I went there as well. That is when I left prematurely to speak to the other prime ministers who were going to be affected by [Hurricane] Beryl. And it was just full; I mean, it was amazing to see how many persons were there. So I think overall the weekend went without incidents. It was well enjoyed by our people here in St. Kitts and Nevis."

Dr. Drew commended the festival's impact on the international stage and local safety, saying, "And I want to once again congratulate the minister on a wonderful, wonderful music festival. And to thank the people of St. Kitts and Nevis for making sure that it was a safe music festival. As a matter of fact, I think St. Kitts and Nevis' name is now further along in the international community as a place where you can go to have fun and a place where you can venture deeper. So I think at the end of the day, it was a very, very successful."

He also mentioned the positive impact on local hotels, noting, "Let me say also, to the extent, even the hotels, I spoke to a sample of the hoteliers. I think Park Hyatt, Marriott, Koi, and they all told me that their numbers went up as a result. But generally, their numbers have been higher this year. And that has to do with the increased number of flights that we have had regionally and internationally. So we have seen a significant increase in our tourism sector."

The United States Takes Immediate Action to Support the Eastern Caribbean Nations after Hurricane Beryl

3rd July 2024

Today, Ambassador Roger Nyhus announced immediate U.S. humanitarian support for the communities impacted by Hurricane Beryl in Grenada and Saint Vincent and the Grenadines. This comes in response to a direct request for assistance from their governments.

Ambassador Nyhus released a declaration of humanitarian need within hours of Hurricane Beryl’s pass through the Eastern Caribbean, triggering the release of funding, administered by the Red Cross, to support those affected by the disaster in the two countries.

USAID has disaster experts on the ground, supporting damage assessments. In anticipation of the hurricane’s landfall, the United States pre-positioned supplies in the region to ensure a swift response. These proactive measures have allowed for an expedited delivery of aid and support to those in need.

“The United States and Embassy Bridgetown stand in solidarity with the people of Grenada and Saint Vincent and the Grenadines during this challenging time,” said Ambassador Nyhus. “The United States is committed to providing the necessary support to help these communities recover and rebuild. These are our friends, neighbors, and partners.”

Disaster Coordinator Urges Public to Take Advisories Seriously

By: Spokesman Newsroom

BASSETERRE, St. Kitts (Wednesday 3rd July 2024)- In light of social media videos showing individuals in neighboring islands outside during the passage of Hurricane Beryl, National Disaster Coordinator for the National Emergency Management Agency (NEMA), Abdias Samuel, is urging the public here in St. Kitts-Nevis to take storm advisories seriously.

“One of the things that is saddening to see is that people are not adhering to the advisories. You see people on the outside. I mean, I’ve seen some images where people are tying a roof while this is happening. You know, that’s not a practice we want to encourage. We are seeing that people did not heed to the warnings of going to a shelter,” he lamented while speaking on Freedom FM’s ‘SKN Today’ episode aired live on Tuesday 2nd July 2024.

Samuel echoed sentiments of his colleague Senior Meteorological Officer of the St. Kitts Met Office, Elmo Burke in sharing: “I am more concerned not for what the state is doing in terms of preparedness, because the state has an obligation. What we are concerned about is the behavioural change that is required in the general public. That is the challenge that we have right now, because we can be prepared. We know what we need to do. Well, the question is, will the general public adhere to the warnings? Because it’s quite evident. Have you seen the videos of persons out on the port? Have you seen the videos of people outside?”

He gave an example about the public disregarding for advisories based on an observation made while on his way the radio station that morning.

“While I was heading here, I was on the Bay Road and I had to turn around; that’s why I was a few minutes late. And the police has the railroad in the vicinity of Caribbean Supply blocked off because of the high surf that we are experiencing in the Caribbean Sea. And you want to tell me that there is no entry sign. You see the waves coming over and persons are still going through. This is what is happening post-impact of the storm. This is where lives are lost. This is where injuries are sustained. And guess what? Then we put more strain on the state response. So therefore, we need the support of the general public; it’s the biggest stakeholder that we have.” Samuel spoke about the importance of home preparedness. “The advisories. We keep preaching the message. You know, prepare your home. Assess your property. Look around. Look at your vulnerabilities. We know windows and doors are critical points of egress and ingress. So we need to batten down. Have somebody assess your roof. If you don’t have the capability, reach out to the state agencies that may find some time to give you some assistance,” he advised. He underscored the necessity of community spirit and adherence to advisories. “Do you know how much persons right now wish that they had even listened to one single advisory, whether it be going to a shelter?” Samuel asked. Highlighting state and private sector readiness, Samuel noted, “Our shelters, we are working on those to make sure that they are in a state of readiness to support that, as we have various groups to deal with shelters. Our state of collecting information pre-impact, the director of public works would have indicated that his team is ready to address that situation. The sectors of welfare relief supplies, the permanent secretary, has indicated that they are continuing their preparedness activities, but they are quite comfortable that they are ready to respond to the need of the general public.” He also mentioned the preparedness of security forces. “The Commissioner of Police and the Commander of the Defence Force would have indicated that the hurricane orders are already in place with their respective agencies to be able to provide security to the (cont’d on next page) critical facilities and the general public, indeed,” he noted.

Samuel highlighted a recent meeting convened by Prime Minister Terrance Drew, where the readiness of various sectors and infrastructure were assessed. “The meeting was convened yesterday by the Honorable Prime Minister. We looked at our infrastructure, we looked at all of the different sectors and where they are in terms of readiness. And we are quite confident that we can weather the storm. No, you can never be too ready,” Samuel stated.

Reflecting on the situation in St. Vincent and the Grenadines, Samuel expressed solidarity and emphasized the importance of preparedness. “My colleagues in St. Vincent and the Grenadines, I know they did everything possible to be as ready as they can. They have done well. However, we have seen the devastations in those islands and I just want to pause and express the solidarity of the NEMA, the government of St. Kitts and Nevis, and the people of St. Kitts and Nevis with our colleagues and friends in that area,” he said.

Samuel underscored the role of the private sector in disaster preparedness. “Also, we want to take this opportunity to highlight the private sector because they are a key component of all the preparedness and response activities. And we are quite comfortable that they have done enough or sufficient to be able to provide us with the basic food services in the event that we have to be impacted,” he said.

He stressed the importance of public adherence to advisories, saying, “Again, I want to encourage the general public to take a look at what is happening in Tobago, St. Vincent and the Grenadines, St. Lucia, Barbados, Grenada, and to do the necessities to prepare. So from the state, we are still identifying gaps and we are doing our best to ensure that we fill these gaps.”

Samuel informed that the tourism sector and ports of entry are

He added, “Our colleagues at Nevis as well, they too have reported that they are in a state of readiness. They would have had a meeting as well yesterday afternoon, in which they too were reassessing the preparedness activities and so on. So, we are quite comfortable for now that the state in itself is in a state of readiness to support the citizens or residents of St. Kitts if we are to be impacted.”

Samuel stressed the critical role of public cooperation. “So the problem is if the general public does not listen to the advisory and adhere to the advisories, then we’re going to have challenges.”

According to him: “If the general public is not supportive and in tune, then every other system is going to be a failure. Right? So the general public has to play its part. We have the example of what has happened with Beryl...”

Support For Borrowing
Member Countries Impacted
By Hurricane Beryl

The Caribbean Development Bank (CDB) is deeply saddened by the damage and devastation experienced by Barbados, Grenada, Carriacou and Petite Martinique, Saint Lucia, St. Vincent and the Grenadines, and Trinidad and Tobago following the passage of Hurricane Beryl. Our hearts go out to the people and communities affected, particularly where there has been loss of life.

The widespread damage across these islands underscores the extreme vulnerability of our Region and highlights the increasing threat Climate Change poses to our Borrowing Members Countries (BMCs) and other small island developing states (SIDS). CDB remains committed to advocating for access to concessionary resources to assist our countries in meeting the challenges posed by our changing environment.

The Bank is resolute in its commitment to supporting the affected territories. We are ready to deploy our full capacity to bolster recovery and rebuilding efforts, and we will work side-by-side with our partner governments to see our BMCs through this crisis. To this end, our Team is actively coordinating a comprehensive, multi-tiered response to meet immediate, medium, and long-term needs.

By way of immediate action, CDB is providing our customary support for the Regional Response Mechanism to be spearheaded by the Caribbean Disaster Emergency Management Agency (CDEMA). This includes mobilisation and coordination of disaster relief to get necessities, resources and assistance to the affected areas as quickly as possible. Where necessary, human resources will also be provided to increase capacity on the ground.

In addition, where possible, national response efforts will be supported, particularly with regard to emergency response.

Another near-term measure will be the provision of funds to address urgent needs at the national level. Consequently, we are now in active communication with the governments of the impacted countries to respond to immediate support requests following the requisite damage assessments.

We are also collaborating with development partners and the international donor community to combine resources and ensure optimal impact.

Our response is built on our Disaster Management Strategy and Operational Guidelines (DiMSOG), which aims to bolster sustainable development and poverty reduction in our member countries by mitigating the impact of natural disasters.

CDB understands that for SIDS, disaster recovery is often a long-term effort. However, we will work with our BMCs to overcome this crisis and restore normalcy as quickly as possible. We will also continue to lead the Region’s sustainable development efforts and build greater resilience for the future.

Statement by the OECS Director General on Hurricane Beryl

I am deeply saddened by the loss of life and significant devastation caused by Hurricane Beryl in our region with notably severe impact on Grenada (Carriacou and Petite Martinique) and St. Vincent and the Grenadines. I send my deepest condolences to the families and all those who have been impacted by this extreme weather event. Beryl, the earliest Category 4 Atlantic Hurricane on record to form in the hurricane season, serves as a stark reminder of the realities of climate change and its adverse impacts affecting Small Island Developing States (SIDS).

We commend the respective OECS Member States, CARICOM countries, National Emergency Management Agencies, and CDEMA, who are coordinating the disaster response and recovery efforts. Our thoughts are also with Jamaica and the Cayman Islands, who are now preparing for a major impact. As a region, we must continue to remain vigilant and prepared against these impacts in what is only the beginning of an active hurricane season. Collective action and solidarity are now required to support all those affected.

The OECS Commission is working to support Member States at this time and calls upon the international community and development partners to support the rebuilding and resilience efforts underway in the region. We commend the Government of Saint Lucia for their show of support in providing a helicopter to the Prime Minister of Grenada to take him around the affected areas. The helicopter was also used to transport urgently needed medical supplies. As individual islands, we may be small, but as one region, together we can withstand and overcome all challenges. We also commend the Republic of France for offering assistance to the Governments of Grenada and St. Vincent and the Grenadines with logistical and transportation assistance to access Carriacou and Petite Martinique (Grenada) and the many Grenadine islands (St. Vincent) that have been devastated and are currently inaccessible.

TDC Home and Building Depot and Toldeo Lock Company host In-Store Product Demonstration

Basseterre, St. Kitts - The TDC Home and Building Depot on St. Kitts and its corporate partner, the Toldeo Lock Company hosted a ‘Get Locked In’ product demonstration for customers.

The highly interactive session showcased the Toledo line of products including the Nexus, the Black Series (the TBK90R) and Anti Corrosion High-Security locks.

Mr. Joshua Diaz, Toldeo Locks Company Regional Sales Head, engaged patrons updating them on the latest innovations in lock technology with hands on demonstrations, highlighting the features, functions and benefits.

Mr. Diaz also took the opportunity to offer expert advice while educating customers about the importance of choosing the right locks for their needs and offered practical solutions for home and office security.

Patrons praised the idea and openly expressed their pleasure in having the event, as many saw it as a chance to learn more about the products and by extension the services that are readily available to them from the store.

“The locks and the features are impressive.”

“I own an Airbnb and will surely get one of the locks, the Nexus. I like the added security it provides.”

The in-store activity formed part of the TDC Home and Building Depots’ Eduseries Program, an annual product development and education campaign, specifically designed to enhance customer experiences.

ECTEL Holds 98th Board of Directors Meeting to Advance Electronic Communications Sector

Castries, Saint Lucia - June 27, 2024 - The Eastern Caribbean Telecommunications Authority (ECTEL) held its 98th Board of Directors meeting on June 25, 2024, bringing together members virtually. The meeting, chaired by Mr. Philip Dalsou, underscored ECTEL’s commitment to foster open markets, liberalization, competition, and harmonised telecommunication policies across its Contracting States. In his welcome address, Mr. Dalsou reflected on ECTEL’s foundational purposes, which include promoting open markets, ensuring universal service, fair pricing and enabling efficient and modern telecommunications.

He emphasized the need for ECTEL to evolve into a 21st-century regulatory body that can effectively manage and regulate the rapidly changing electronic communications sector.

Highlights of the meeting included discussions on ECTEL’s work-plan, initiative to promote greater staff engagement, a review of ECTEL’s finances for the year so far, and new developments on the passage of a new Electronic Communications Act for the sub-region.

As Mr. Dalsou highlighted in his welcome address: “the Board of Directors play a critical role in the governance of ECTEL, as outlined in Article 8 of the Treaty. He emphasized the Board’s responsibility to ensure the effective implementation of the treaty and related policies, guiding the sector’s growth for the benefit of the Contracting States’ citizens.” Mr. Dalsou further stated that, “As the electronic communications sector continues to evolve, ECTEL is committed to transforming into a forward-thinking regulatory authority. This transformation is essential to keep pace with technological advancements and to ensure that the regulatory framework facilitates, rather than hinders growth in the electronic communications sector.”

The meeting concluded with optimism for the future, as ECTEL remains dedicated to advancing telecommunications and fostering an inclusive, competitive, and innovative electronic communications environment within its Contracting States.

Department of Cooperatives in St. Kitts organises beach clean-up in Sandy Point BASSETERRE, ST. KITTS, July 4, 2024 (MMS-SKN) — In a lead-up to the International Day of Cooperatives, which will be observed on Saturday July 6 under the theme ‘Cooperatives Building a Better Future for All’, the Department of Cooperatives in St. Kitts has been observing a week of activities.

The activities kicked off on Thursday June 27, with members of the various cooperatives displaying their businesses and products at the Agro Strip on Pond Site in East Basseterre.

With the Department of Cooperatives now falling under the Ministry of Small Business and Entrepreneurship, the week of activities continued on Wednesday morning, July 3, with Permanent Secretary, Ms Delrine Taylor, leading staff and members of cooperative societies on a beach clean-up exercise at Pump Bay, Fig Tree, Sandy Point.

“Today’s beach clean-up, in Sandy Point, was a wonderful initiative as it highlighted the importance of environment stewardship and community collaboration,” said PS Taylor. “It was especially significant because Sandy Point is the home of one of our cooperatives, Sandy Point Agricultural Cooperative Society (SPACS), which is an esteemed agricultural cooperative society. This event not only keeps the beach clean, but it also fosters a sense of unity and responsibility among the community members.”

Staff of the Department of Cooperatives, and staff from the

Ministry Small Business and Entrepreneurship, teamed up with members of the Sandy Point Fishermen Marketing and Supply Cooperative Society outside Rum Dawg Beach Bar and Grill at 7:30 a.m. where the Registrar of Cooperatives, Mrs Earla Clarke-Allen, led them in a moment of prayer before they embarked on their all-important mission to clean up the Pump Bay Beach.

As a direct effect of the passage of Hurricane Beryl in the region, the sea was very rough and debris including plastics, clothing and planks of wood kept on washing up. The beach cleaners would get into the water to retrieve them, and put them in black plastic bags.

The clean-up activity came to an end at 9:00 a.m., and the participants were served breakfast at the Rum Dawg Beach Bar and Grill, and later drinks at the Link Up Bar.

Joining PS Taylor from her ministry included Assistant Secretary, Ms Leah Crag-Chaderton, Senior Business Advisors, Mrs Kyla Gibson-Dore, and Mr. Delwayne Delaney. President of the Sandy Point Fishermen Marketing and Supply Cooperative, Mr Ralph Wilkins, was accompanied by among others, the Vice President Mr Kyle Jones, Secretary Mrs Sandy Wilkin-Francis, and member Mr Rex Newton.

The team had been joined very early by a member of the St. Kitts Agro Processors Cooperative Society, 65-year old Ms Roberta Rawlins from Tabernacle Village, and later by President of the Old Road-based Gideon Force Organic Agricultural Cooperative Society, Ras Sankofa Maccabee.

"This (beach clean-up) does not just benefit the Department of Cooperatives, as you also have an environmental impact," noted Permanent Secretary Ms Delrine Taylor. "You have the tourism aspect as you are aware that the Sandy Point's Pump Bay has now been named a significant strip on the island of St. Kitts and that is a plan to raise the tourism product of St. Kitts and Nevis."

She pointed out that cleanliness is the sustainability of that area and not just the beach area which is significantly important, but it will not only benefit multiple sectors, among them the cooperatives in the area, but also the small businesses that have their establishments in the area.

"We just have had some rough waters as a result of the passage of Hurricane Beryl, and lots of debris and plastic came on the shores and we were able to clean those so they do not go back into the ocean and create any disaster for our marine life," concluded PS Ms Delrine Taylor.

Mr Ralph Wilkins, President of the Sandy Point Fishermen Marketing and Supply Cooperative Society, thanked the team that helped in the beach clean-up, and notably the Ministry of Small Business and Entrepreneurship, and the Department of Cooperatives.

"By cleaning the beach, fishermen would have more access to the sea," said Mr Wilkins. "Even though we have one net boat around here, cleaning the beach is still good for them. It is the only beach around here now, so most people come here to bathe, so we have to keep the beach clean. So we just want to say thank you for coming and assisting us."

Speaking on behalf of other business establishments at Pump Bay, owner of Rum Dawg Beach Bar and Grill, Mr Bruce Cannonier, said that the clean-up was something that was well-needed.

"You have to keep the environment clean because you know we are doing business here," stated Mr Cannonier. "It is only fair to keep the business clean when the patrons come and apart from that you keep the coastline clean. So it is a good effort and I commend it highly. I hope it will happen again, not just once, and also I appreciate it very much."

Nazi song row student group suspended by university

By Susie Rack,
BBC News, West Midlands

The University of Warwick's students' union has suspended the activities of a Conservative Association group after a "reprehensible" video was shared online

A university has suspended a student group while it investigates a video that appears to show members dancing to a Nazi marching song.

The University of Warwick described the video, which was shared on social media and in the media, as "reprehensible" and launched an inquiry.

The University of Warwick Conservative Association (UWCA) has apologised over the footage, which apparently shows attendees at a dinner it hosted dancing to Erika, a popular World War Two song for Nazi soldiers.

"Antisemitism has no place on our campus," a university spokesperson said.

"Warwick SU has suspended the activities of Warwick Conservative Association while the investigation is carried out."

As dinner attendees dance while the music plays, shouts of "sehr gut" - German for "very good" - can be heard on the video.

'Utterly abhorrent'

The UWCA has apologised for the hurt caused by the incident and said the song was requested by an individual who would be barred from future events.

In a statement, the group added most attendees had been unaware of the song's connotations, and it would fully cooperate with the university's investigation.

It also pointed out its members had consistently campaigned on campus against antisemitism and would continue to stand against discrimination.

The Union of Jewish

Students previously said the gathering's "blatant and unchallenged support for Nazism" was "utterly abhorrent" and that it expected decisive action on the matter.

"Glorification of the Nazis has no place in our society," they said, adding "it is in no way acceptable and must be widely condemned".

Public Advisory re: E-COMMERCE SCAMS

The White Collar Crime Unit (WCCU) of the Royal St. Christopher and Nevis Police Force (RSCNPF) in collaboration with the St. Kitts and Nevis Financial Intelligence Unit (SKNFIU) is issuing this advisory to the general public to assist with the identification and prevention of E-Commerce Scams.

Intelligence suggests that there are illicit actors (scammers) who are utilizing social media and purporting to be legitimate sellers of goods. The general public is hereby advised to exercise caution when utilising social media as a channel for the selling and the procuring of goods and the use of online platforms for payments.

RECOMMENDATIONS

- * Exercise caution when transacting business in social media.
- * If the seller is unknown or cannot be verified, refrain from conducting the transaction.
- * Confirm via telephone contact whether the seller possesses the goods and the selling price.
- * Verify that payment is received through telephone contact with the seller.
- * Be wary of purchasing goods from unknown people; goods might be stolen items.

The RSCNPF and SKNFIU continue to effect their national mandates through this dissemination in the fight against money laundering and other related activities.

The university said its externally-led investigation could take up to 90 days, with findings shared publicly. "Should appropriate action be necessary following the conclusion of the investigation, we will not hesitate to act," the spokesperson added.

Statement from Dr. Kishore Shallow, President of Cricket West Indies on Hurricane Beryl

It is with a heavy heart that I express my deepest sorrow for the devastating impact Hurricane Beryl, a Category 4 hurricane, has had on the Caribbean, striking less than forty-eight hours after our region celebrated the successful conclusion of the ICC Men's T20 World Cup in Barbados. As a citizen of St. Vincent and the Grenadines, it is especially painful to witness the tragic loss in Union Island and the catastrophic damage to Carriacou and Petite Martinique part of the tri-island state of Grenada.

The aftermath of Hurricane Beryl is a stark reminder of the vulnerability our region faces. The destruction and loss are profound, and the road to recovery will be challenging. However, in the spirit of unity and resilience that characterizes the West Indies, we will rise to meet these challenges head-on.

Our thoughts and prayers are with our brothers and sisters in Jamaica as Hurricane Beryl approaches, urging all to take necessary precautions.

Cricket West Indies stands in solidarity with all those affected by this calamity. We pledge our unwavering support. Now more than ever, we must unite and "Rally round the West Indies." Together, we will rebuild and emerge stronger.

India legends Virat Kohli, Rohit Sharma and Ravindra Jadeja have retired from T20 internationals following their World Cup triumph in Barbados.

Kohli was man of the match for his 76 and Rohit became the first India captain to lift a World Cup since 2011 following the captivating seven-run defeat of South Africa.

Rohit, 37, and 35-year-old Kohli are number one and two respectively on the all-time list of T20 international run-scorers.

"I've loved every moment of this," said Rohit. "I started my India career playing this format. This is what I wanted. I wanted to win the cup and say thank you."

On former captain Kohli, Rohit said: "He's been a champion player without a doubt. We all know what he has done for us."

"At some point everyone has to say goodbye to the game and Virat was very clear that this is what he wanted to do."

Jadeja, 35, wrote on Instagram on Sunday: "Like a steadfast horse galloping with pride, I've always given my best for my country and will continue to do so in other formats."

"Winning the T20 World Cup was a dream come true, a pinnacle of my T20 international career. Thank you for the memories, the cheers, and the unwavering support."

All three men will continue to be available for India in Tests and one-day internationals.

Kohli had endured a difficult World Cup, with only 75 runs in seven innings before his important knock in the final lifted India to 176-7.

South Africa needed only 30 runs from the final five overs, but they wilted in the face of some superb India death bowling, and Suryakumar Yadav's all-time great catch to remove David Miller in the 20th over effectively sealed the match.

Clearly emotional on receiving his player-of-the-match award, Kohli said: "This is my last T20 game playing for India, my last World Cup I was going to play."

"I wanted to make the most of it. And this was our aim. We wanted to lift the cup."

"I'm really grateful I was able to get the job done for the team when it mattered the most."

Kohli ends with 4,188 runs from 125 T20 internationals, just behind Rohit's tally of 4,231. Rohit's 159 caps is also the most for any man and his five centuries is also a record, shared with Australia's Glenn Maxwell.

Left-arm spinning all-rounder Jadeja has made 74 T20 international appearances, taking 54 wickets at an average of 29.85 and scoring 515 runs at a strike rate of 127.16.

Rohit and Bangladesh all-rounder Shakib Al Hasan are the only men to feature in every T20 World Cup, the first edition of which was held in 2007, which India won.

India's last World Cup success in any format came in the 50-over version in 2011.

They have lost two finals in the past year: the World Test Championship final to Australia at The Oval last summer, then the 50-over final on home soil in Ahmedabad to the same opponents in November.

"It was very emotional, I wanted this badly," said Rohit. "I was very desperate for this in my life so I'm happy we crossed the line this time."

"This has to be the greatest time, only because how of desperately I wanted to win this."

"All the runs that I've scored in all these years, it does matter, but I'm not big on stats and all of that. Winning games for India, winning trophies for India, that is what I look forward to all the time."
