Uniting for Change: The Importance of Workers Joining the SKNT&LU

In the landscape of labour relations, the role of workers' unions cannot be overstated. Yet, despite their potential to empower and protect employees, there persists a culture of hesitance and reluctance among workers to join such associations.

It is time to challenge this status quo and recognize the invaluable benefits that come with uniting under the banner of organizations like the SKNT&LU (St. Kitts and Nevis Trades and Labour Union).

Too often, workers view unions as a last resort, seeking their assistance only when faced with grievances or disputes. However, this reactive approach fails to harness the full potential of collective action. It is imperative for workers to understand that joining a union is not just about seeking assistance in times of need; it is about building a proactive community that advocates for their rights, welfare, and betterment.

One of the most significant advantages of workers uniting under a union like the SKNT&LU is the power of collective bargaining. By standing together, workers gain leverage in negotiating better wages, benefits, and working conditions with employers. This collective strength enables workers to amplify their voices and demand fair treatment in the workplace.

Moreover, unions serve as a platform for solidarity and support among workers. By fostering a sense of camaraderie and unity, unions create a space where individuals can come together, share experiences, and support each other in navigating the complexities of the labour market. This sense of community is particularly crucial in environments where workers may feel isolated or vulnerable.

However, joining a union is not just a one-time act; it requires ongoing engagement and commitment from members. Workers must recognize the importance of maintaining a continuous relationship with the union, beyond seeking assistance during times of trouble. Building a strong and active union requires participation, communication, and collaboration from all members.

Furthermore, workers must overcome the divisive tendencies that often prevail in workplaces. Rather than being divided along lines of job titles, departments or backgrounds, workers must stand united in pursuit of common goals. Solidarity among workers is essential for effecting meaningful change and addressing systemic issues that affect all employees.

In conclusion, the importance of workers joining the SKNT&LU cannot be overstated. It is time for a cultural shift - a shift away from viewing unions as a mere safety net and towards recognizing them as powerful agents of change and progress. Workers must embrace the principles of collective action, solidarity, and proactive engagement. By standing together under the umbrella of the union, workers can amplify their voices, protect their rights, and advocate for a better future for all.

Let us send a clear message to workers with grievances: the SKNT&LU is not merely a 'hospital' for resolving problems; it is a home- a community where every worker's voice matters, and where collective action paves the way for meaningful change.

Join the union, stay engaged, and together, let us build a better future for workers everywhere.

SKNT&LU Encourages Workers to Unite on International Workers' Day

By: Spokesman Newsroom

BASSETTERRE, St.Kitts (Tuesday 30th April 2024)- As International Workers' Day (Labour Day) approaches, the longstanding workers representative organisation the St. Kitts-Nevis Trades and Labour Union (SKNT&LU) is rallying workers across the nation to join its ranks in solidarity and strength.

SKNT&LU General Secretary Precious Mills emphasized the significance of workers' unity and collective action in advocating for their rights and interests.

"International Workers' Day serves as a powerful reminder of the essential role workers play in our society and economy. It is a day to celebrate our achievements, reflect on our challenges, and reaffirm our commitment to standing together as one."

For the occasion, on Monday 6th, 2024, the SKNTLU will proudly march on Labour Day, spreading the message of being an effectiveness and powerful voice for workers by way of highlighting its unwavering commitment to advocating for the rights and welfare of workers across the nation.

Furthermore, as part of its outreach efforts, following the march, the SKNTLU will host its second annual 'Working For "The Union extends a warm invitation to all workers and supporters to join in the festivities and partake in the celebration of workers' rights and achievements," Mills stated.

Over the past year, interest in joining SKNT&LU has seen a notable increase, reflecting growing awareness among workers of the importance of union representation. The Union has been actively involved in championing workers' rights, tackling issues such as fair wages, safe working conditions and job security.

"SKNT&LU remains dedicated to serving the needs and interests of workers across diverse sectors. We are committed to ensuring that workers are treated with the dignity, respect, and fairness they deserve in the workplace."

Labour Day, observed annually on the first Monday in the month of May, holds particular significance as a day to commemorate the struggles and triumphs of the labour movement.

In anticipation of International Workers' Day, SKNT&LU has announced the availability of special commemorative shirts for purchase by unionised members. These shirts, adorned with the Union's emblem, symbolize solidarity and unity among workers. To further incentivise membership, the shirts will be offered at a discounted price exclusively for unionised members.

"We encourage all workers to proudly don their SKNT&LU shirts on International Workers' Day as a symbol of unity and strength. Together, we can continue to forge a brighter future for all workers," Mills said.

As workers prepare to observe International Workers' Day, SKNT&LU's message rings clear: unity is our greatest asset. Through collective action and solidarity, workers can amplify their voices, safeguard their rights, and strive for a more just and equitable society.

The SKNT&LU General Secretary encouraged: "On International Workers' Day, let us renew our commitment to the values of solidarity, unity, and social justice. Together, we can achieve greater prosperity and dignity for all workers."

“Water in Cayon is good to go” Says Water Services Minister

By: Spokesman Newsroom

BASSETTERRE, St.Kitts (Tuesday 30th April 2024)- Minister responsible for Water Services, Konris Maynard, in speaking at a pre-Labour Day public meeting held in St. Paul's on Tuesday 30th April 2024, announced that “the water in Cayon is good to go” following testing done over the past weekend as part of the government's efforts to address water shortage issues affecting Cayon and others communities on St.Kitts.

He criticized the former administration's lack of action, stating, “Seven and a half years, not one improvement in water in this country.”

As understood, under the present government-led by Prime Minister Dr. Terrance Drew- drilling for water in Cayon began approximately eight months ago.

“...and thank God Almighty we were able to find water in Cayon. They [former government] built out the well, and we had to then procure the other material to make the well work. Again, of course, because everything has to be manufactured to spec and so I am happy to announce that after we had put in the efforts to bring relief to the people of Cayon, on the weekend gone there, we did the final test for the well in Cayon. And you know what the final test say? That the water in Cayon is good to go!”

He continued: “The test shows that the well can produce consistently over four hundred thousand (400,000) gallons of water a day without jeopardizing the well. That is what the report says.”

Maynard underscored the government's commitment to delivering top-quality infrastructure.

“And every time, every hour of that test, after every hour, we took samples, and all of the field samples passed. But again, we are a good and prudent government, and so we have now sent those samples to the best labs in the world to make sure that we have certified the water coming out of that well. So in a matter of days we did it already at the beginning, and we have to do it again at the end. So in a matter of days, the people of Cayon will have water in the pipes from the new well. And we ain't stopping there.”

As understood, with the successful completion of the testing phase, residents can anticipate the return of 24/7 water supply in the Cayon community in a matter of days.

Maynard, the Parliamentary Representative for Constituency Three (West Basseterre), emphasized the government's proactive approach to addressing water shortages.

“The people of Basseterre as well, in West Basseterre have been struggling with the lack of water for years. And the Attorney General has advised me after the work we have put in to set up the contract for the building of a 2 million gallon diesel plant that we are just about ready to sign and break ground and build the diesel plant. So in a matter of two weeks, the project to build a 2 million diesel plant in Basseterre will get going... and so my constituents in Constituency #3, constituents in Constituency #2, constituents in Constituency #1 [and] constituents in St.Peter's, in a very short time, you will also be returned to 24 hour, 7-day a week water. That's what this government is doing.”

Looking ahead, Maynard outlined plans for further infrastructure development, including the exploration of additional well sites in the western part of the country.

“The next step, in a few weeks, you're going to see a helicopter flying around St.Kitts don't get frightened. It is going to be testing and sending out a signal to identify where we can find other wells like Cayon in the western part of the country. They're going to fly to determine where we must drill the next well. And so for the people from about Sandy Point around to Cayon. Cayon, we will be drilling more wells in this region, and we will pinpoint with accuracy where we're going to find the next well.”

STATEMENT re: WEAPONS DISPLAYS IN VIDEOS

The Royal St. Christopher and Nevis Police Force (RSCNPF) is aware of an unfortunate social media trend with persons depicting and displaying various forms of weaponry in videos. To date, we have seen at least two (2) local artistes brandishing what appear to be firearms in videos that continue to be circulated via the social media platform, Whatsapp. The High Command outrightly and forcefully condemns such actions and behaviours as they hold no positive value whatsoever for our nation’s safety, security, and social development.

As the RSCNPF works assiduously with the other National Security agencies to curb the recent crime spike, be advised that the organisation has officially expanded its “zero tolerance” stance to include the display, depiction*, or description of all forms of weaponry in locally produced and owned digital content. Such actions are a confirmed source of negative influence to the young at heart and the young in mind among us. Irresponsible acts that further propagate anti-social behaviours and violent tendencies cannot and will not be tolerated. The RSCNPF therefore regards such acts as a clear celebration and encouragement of the committing of violent crimes against citizens and residents.

Further, the general public is advised that all persons resident in the Federation of St. Kitts - Nevis who are involved in the production of - or identified as present in - any digital content where they or others are engaging in the above-mentioned activities, will be regarded as suspected threats to life, liberty, and property. All suspected, confirmed, and active threats to life, liberty, and property will be treated with severe prejudice by the RSCNPF.

During the last decade, social media became an integral part of our personal and professional lives. It is prudent that we understand that using an electronic device to disseminate reckless digital content in no way exempts persons from the consequences of irresponsible social media usage. Our investigations have revealed that in almost all circumstances, the adults engaging in these activities are fully aware of their actions’ level of influence, and the potential for far-reaching consequences. Nevertheless, they persistently display a high level of indifference and wilful ignorance. To combat the spread of this regressive school of thought, the RSCNPF will not be taking into consideration any excuses, explanations, arguments, or pleas from persons whose reckless actions automatically categorise them as suspected threats to life, liberty, and property.

As with everything in life, the choice is yours to make. The RSCNPF simply encourages one and all to choose wisely.

depiction = any weapon or item fashioned to have the appearance of a weapon, that is displayed or described in audiovisual digital content recorded, written, and disseminated within St. Kitts and Nevis

The OECS and Agence Francaise de Developpement (AFD) Strengthen Collaboration for Environmental Sustainability

OECS Media Release

April 30, 2024 - The Organisation of Eastern Caribbean States (OECS) welcomed a delegation from the Agence Francaise de Developpement (AFD) on Monday, April 29, 2024, led by Charles Trottmann, Head of the Three Oceans department of the Agence Francaise de D  veloppement (AFD). This meeting marked a pivotal moment in enhancing cooperation between the OECS and France in addressing common environmental challenges.

A significant highlight of the visit was the signing of a project agreement for mangrove restoration in the OECS. At the signing, Domenico Ditaranto, Deputy Head of Mission at the French Embassy in Saint Lucia, joined the OECS Director General, Dr. Didacus Jules, and Charles Trottmann in formalising the agreement.

During the signing of the agreement, Mr. Trottmann expressed his support for the critical need for ecosystem balance and coastal preservation. He reminded the Director General of a conversation during a conference on regional cooperation, in which they shared their desire to strengthen collaboration between the AFD and the OECS. He said, “Today marks, I think a new step towards the implementation of this strengthening of this collaboration. My visit also comes after a series of important French official visits in this territory. The Secretary of State, Chrysoula Zacharopoulou was here in February 2023, Minister Gerald Darmanin was here a month ago. It is also a sign of France’s commitment to its regional presence in the region. It is also important to note that this is the first visit to the OECS from a department director from AFD as well as a regional director.”

Dr. Jules echoed this sentiment, highlighting the grassroots efforts in member states to restore mangroves. He stated:

“The agreement that we are here to sign today is really an important area in which we’ve seen a lot of action being undertaken at a voluntary community level - the restoration of mangroves. There are several experiences in member states, in Grenada, in some of the British territories, where communities on their own are recognising the importance of restoring mangroves, not just for balance in the ecosystem, but also for its value to fisheries and for the preservation of coastlines.”

Mr. Trottmann reaffirmed AFD’s commitment to collaboration with the OECS, noting the significance of the visit in strengthening regional ties, while the Head of the OECS Environmental Sustainability Division, Mr. Chamberlain Emmanuel, affirmed the project’s potential to demonstrate effective regional integration and partnership between French and English territories.

The OECS team presented the latest advancements in the mangroves project slated to commence in the second semester of 2024. This initiative, set to receive funding from AFD and the French Facility for Global Environment (FFEM), will be implemented by the OECS and is currently in the drafting phase. This regional project promises to strengthen communities’ resilience against climate change while fostering regional integration among OECS sovereign states and associated member states, particularly French territories.

A team from the OECS Environmental Sustainability Division (ESD) led by Chamberlain Emmanuel further engaged in constructive discussions with Mr. Trottmann on tackling several regional environmental issues. During the discussions, Mr. Emmanuel emphasised the importance of designing tailored solutions for shared environmental issues, highlighting the need for collaborative approaches to address biodiversity loss, climate change, and ocean conservation and management in Small Island Developing States (SIDS). He also outlined the OECS’s mission - to foster equitable and sustainable improvement in the quality of life for people of the OECS - emphasising its commitment to the Green-Blue Economy, which prioritises climate resilience, sustainability, inclusiveness, and responsible management.

The visit also provided an opportunity for the OECS to give an update on the Recycle OECS project, an initiative being executed through a partnership between the OECS and the AFD. Recycle OECS is a pioneering initiative that is setting the stage for a paradigm shift in waste management across the OECS, and the goal is to develop a replicable model that can be easily adapted to suit the circumstances of other OECS Member States and document a case study for Small Island Developing states.

After the meetings, the delegation engaged in a field trip to Renew Saint Lucia, a recycling company, to explore further recycling possibilities in the region, discussing both challenges and opportunities.

The OECS looks forward to continued collaboration with AFD and other partners to advance environmental sustainability and foster resilience in the Eastern Caribbean.

development, youth empowerment, and national unity. We extend our gratitude to all stakeholders involved in organizing this landmark event and look forward to continuing our collaborative efforts to harness the power of sport for the betterment of our society,” Permanent Secretary Syder intimated.

CADE was established in 2003. The recently concluded summit marked the first time the U.S. led and hosted the hemispherical convention. The U.S assumed leadership of CADE (by rotation) in 2023, for a two-year period. The country leading CADE would typically serve as the Americas region’s sole representative on the 16-Member Board of WADA.

CADE comprises two sub-divisions: the Consejo Sudamericano del Deporte (CONSUDE) for South America and the Consejo Centroamericano y del Caribe del Deporte (CONCECADE) for Central America and the Caribbean. These sub-divisions facilitate focused collaboration and development initiatives tailored to the specific needs and dynamics of each region.

FIFA Football For Schools programme launched in Nevis with a capacity building workshop for sports officers, coaches

NIA CHARLESTOWN NEVIS (April 29, 2024)- The FIFA Football For Schools programme was officially launched in Nevis on Monday, April 29.

At a ceremony held at the Nevis Disaster Management Department conference room to mark the occasion, Minister of Education, Youth, and Sports in the Nevis Island Administration (NIA) the Honourable Troy Liburd spoke to the impact the programme would have on the development of football on the island of Nevis.

“It means that our coaches here in Nevis will have the full benefit of the programme and our young students, our budding future football stars, young players who have that potential, have a better opportunity to realize that potential and that is what this programme is all about.

“St. Kitts and Nevis is the smallest sovereign state in the Western Hemisphere and we are the smaller island of St. Kitts and Nevis, so we’re very grateful to FIFA, a world encompassing organization that has been around for 120 years, that they have come to Nevis. Even though we are small I think we have quite a lot of talent here and having a programme like this is only going to assist us in bringing light to that talent and bringing those individuals who have that talent to go far with football,” he said.

He highlighted the marked improvement in the skillset of footballers on Nevis in recent years.

“We have been making strides in football in Nevis due to the relentless hard work of those individuals who have invested their time and efforts into the development of football without a lot of assistance. Now that we are going to be getting that assistance from FIFA and the St. Kitts and Nevis Football Association we expect that football in Nevis will be able to grow.”

The Honourable Liburd lauded the cooperation between the SKNFA and the Nevis Island Administration and thanked SKNFA President Mr. Atiba Harris for ensuring that Nevis also benefits from the football programmes being implemented in the Federation.

Mr. Harris said it was a historic moment that Nevis was having such a programme being individually implemented on the island.

“I think it’s a great opportunity where football and education will marry together and it’s now our time to start elevating and moving forward in a positive way. It’s a golden opportunity not just for our coaches but also our children to elevate themselves not just on the field playing but also off the field.”

Delivering remarks at the ceremony Ms. Malaika Church, FIFA Regional Development Manager, said being the first Caribbean country to launch such a significant programme on a sister island demonstrates how vital football is to all stakeholders under the St. Kitts and Nevis Football Association.

“As football administrators we have seen the importance of a good foundation in the life of players and we believe through the

Smith left out of Australia T20 World Cup squad

Smith has scored five half-centuries in 67 T20 internationals for Australia

Published BBC Sports

Former captain Steve Smith has been left out of Australia's squad for June's T20 World Cup in the Caribbean and USA.

The 34-year-old's exclusion comes after a poor run of form against New Zealand in February, when he made scores of 11 and four.

Promising batter Jake Fraser-McGurk has also been omitted, all-rounder Mitchell Marsh will captain the side and veteran opening batter David Warner has been selected for what could be his final international tournament.

"Ultimately the balance of the final 15 needs to provide the best chance of being successful in this campaign," said selection chief George Bailey.

Bailey added there had been "long conversations" about whether to include Smith in the side and said he would be keeping a close eye on Fraser-McGurk, 22, who has been in fine form for the Delhi Capitals in the Indian Premier League.

Test captain Pat Cummins, fast bowler Mitchell Starc and all-rounder Glenn Maxwell are among the experienced players in the 15-man squad, with 11 having taken part in Australia's 2021 T20 World Cup-winning campaign.

Devon Thomas is an all-rounder and occasional wicketkeeper

West Indies international Devon Thomas has been banned from cricket for five years after admitting seven anti-corruption breaches.

The 34-year-old has played 34 times for West Indies across all formats, most recently in 2022.

His most serious offence was contriving or being party to match-fixing attempts in Sri Lanka's domestic T20 competition in 2021.

The all-rounder and occasional wicketkeeper also admitted several charges of failing to report illegal approaches at the Abu Dhabi T10 and Caribbean Premier League to the authorities.

Thomas made his international debut in 2009 - the first of 21 one-day internationals.

He also played 12 T20s and one Test, against Australia in Adelaide in 2022.

Eighteen months of his ban by the International Cricket Council (ICC) have been suspended.

Tiger Woods has accepted a special exemption to play in the US Open at Pinehurst next month.

The 48-year-old, a 15-time major winner including three US Opens, does not qualify automatically after his five-year exemption for winning the 2019 Masters ran out earlier this year.

He has struggled to compete since suffering severe leg injuries in a car crash in 2021 and has played only two tournaments this year.

The most recent of those was last month's Masters where he finished 60th on 16 over but made a record 24th consecutive cut.

"The US Open, our national championship, is a truly special event for our game and one that has helped define my career," said Woods, now ranked 789th in the world.

"I'm honoured to receive this exemption and could not be more excited for the opportunity to compete in this year's US Open, especially at Pinehurst, a venue that means so much to the game."

Woods has said he hopes to play one tournament a month this year. He qualifies automatically for the US PGA Championship later this year as a former champion.

He won the last of his three US Open titles in 2008 and was a runner-up to Michael Campbell at Pinehurst in 2005.

The championship begins on 13 June.
