Our Health Is Our Wealth - So Why Do We Spend It So Carelessly?

There is a well-known proverb that reminds us: "Health is wealth." But in our fast-paced, give-everything-to-everyone lives, we often treat our bodies and minds more like machines than treasures. We rally to support loved ones when illness strikes, we extend care when a colleague collapses, yet we routinely ignore our own warning signs. Isn't it time we start being just as kind or kinder to ourselves?

This is not a plea for selfishness. It is a call for balance. A quiet reminder that self-care is not indulgent-it is responsible. That cup of tea in silence, that long-overdue check-up, that walk instead of the extra hour at the screen-these are the investments that yield a higher quality of life. The return? Moments of peace, joy, and strength to face life's storms with grace.

Too often, we hear it: "She was just at work yesterday." "He didn't look sick." And suddenly someone we know, love or admire is lying in a hospital bed-or worse. We mourn, we shake our heads and we whisper, "Life is short." But how often do we let that truth guide how we live?

We spend so much time showing up for others-running errands, meeting deadlines, making sure everyone else is okay. Yet when was the last time we asked ourselves: Am I okay?

Looking in the mirror should not just be about fixing what's visible-it should also reflect the deeper care we give ourselves. That reflection should show rest, nourishment, boundaries, and respect for the body and spirit we've been gifted. Because if we do not pour into ourselves, we will eventually have nothing left to give.

It is time we rewrite the silent script that says giving to others must come at the expense of our health. It's time we understand that prioritizing well-being-physical, mental, emotional-is not a weakness, but a strength. We must normalize things like saying no, getting rest, seeing a therapist, moving our bodies, getting check-ups, laughing often, and breathing deeply.

We matter. And the care we offer others must first be rooted in what we offer ourselves. We owe it to our future selves, to our families, and to the life we still have ahead-to honour our health, protect our peace, and ensure that our wealth isn't measured in numbers, but in the richness of a life lived with comfort, presence, and ease.

So today, make the appointment. Drink the water. Take the walk. Say the kind word-to yourself. Because you deserve

SKTU Hosts Workshop For Teacher Assistants

Basseterre: St. Kitts, Thursday, July 17, 2025: The St. Kitts Teachers' Union (SKTU) in collaboration with the Canadian Teachers' Federation (CTF) and the Ministry of Education has created valuable avenues for professional growth for the teacher's assistants through a series of workshops held at the Advanced Vocational Education Center (AVEC).

Mrs. Lavern Dublin Collins, General Secretary and Chair of the Professional Development Committee in the SKTU, and Course Coordinator for the workshop explained.

"This year the workshop is being held under the theme "Teaching Together," which is a transformational teaching workshop. It covers several important areas including Classroom Management, Instructional Strategies, and Child Pedagogy. We have also included two special sessions on Gender Equality, and Unionism. The workshop runs for two weeks, and we [SKTU] have two facilitators from CTF -the Canadian Teachers' Federation and three facilitators from the St. Kitts Teachers' Union. We are incredibly happy we can partner with the Ministry of Education to provide professional development for the Teacher's Assistant."

Ms. Stephanie Deagle, Literacy Coach, Co-Tutor and representative of the Canadian Teachers' Federation also shared her expectations of the workshop's impact.

"After this experience, I hope that the teachers will come away with a better understanding of themselves and what their expectations are for the classroom. That they will look forward to using the strategies that they learnt and shared with the other participants, and they know that their best source is the teachers around them."

the same compassion and care you so freely give away.

Let us stop waiting until we're broken to pay attention. Health is not just a gift-it is the foundation of everything. Let us value it before it demands we do.

Dr. Osborne: Up to 80% of Women Will Develop Fibroids

By: Spokesman Newsroom

BASSETERRE, St. Kitts (Monday 14th July 2025) - Local medical practitioner Dr. Natalie Osborne has addressed the commonness of uterine fibroids, a condition affecting the majority of women, often starting from their 20s which can grow as large as a watermelon.

She made the disclosure during her appearance on FreedomFm’s ‘SKN Today’ aired live Wednesday 9th July 2025, with host Jamiella McPhail whereby she explained that fibroids - though non-cancerous-can cause a wide range of complications, including heavy menstrual bleeding, infertility and even heart strain in severe cases.

“Fibroids are extremely common... up to 80% of females in their lifetime can have some fibroids,” she stated.

The condition, she explained, often goes unnoticed until symptoms become severe.

“Not everybody would eventually know that they have fibroids because some of them will never give you symptoms,” Dr. Osborne noted, adding that fibroids are most frequently diagnosed between the ages of mid-30s and 50s, but can show up as early as the 20s.

“Fibroids, or leiomyomas or myomas of the uterus, are benign or non-cancerous tumors that grow from the muscle layer- starts within the muscle layer-and these tumors can go from any angle or any area inside of the uterus,” she explained.

Dr. Osborne shared that her conversation that week was prompted by a recent case involving a woman in her 30s who presented with fatigue, shortness of breath and paleness.

“Her hemoglobin was right down to five-which you want the normal in a female in the fertile years at 11 and above. Hers was five, so it was significantly low and it turned out that she had fibroids which was the underlying cause.”

In providing details about the description of fibroid sizes, Dr. Osborne informed: “Most of the time large fibroids can cause that heaviness in the lower abdomen... because they can go to such huge size- up to a watermelon size, a grapefruit size.”

She added that fibroids can cause compressive symptoms such as frequent urination, constipation, bloating, difficulty with bowel movements and pain.

“You realize that your clothing is getting real tight and uncomfortable,” she said. “Clearly, if you have a watermelon- yeah, it’s going to show.”

As gathered, depending on their size and position, fibroids can lead to a range of symptoms.

“You can have low abdominal pain, that heaviness, that dullness. You can have pain in your back... you can have pain during sexual intercourse,” Dr. Osborne noted.

In more severe cases, fibroids can cause anemia due to heavy or prolonged menstrual bleeding. “One of the most feared [complications] - Why? Because when these persons have these fibroids... your blood count or your hemoglobin drops off. And then you start having all of these symptoms of anemia - you’re restless, you’re short of breath... chest pain when you walk from point A to point B. If that progresses without attention, persons can go into heart failure,” she added.

Dr. Osborne outlined several risk factors including obesity, family history, early onset of menstruation, and a diet high in processed foods. She also pointed to race as a contributing factor. “We as black women in the Caribbean-we have a higher propensity of having uterine fibroids,” she said, adding that they are “seen at a much younger age with a lot more associated complications.”

Diagnosis is usually simple, she explained.

“You can do a simple abdominal ultrasound... and that is one of the easiest methods. You can look at the size, you can look at the location, you can say how many fibroids you have,” she advised.

Treatment options range from medical to surgical depending on the patient’s age, symptoms and desire to have children.

“We have surgical, medical, but we may not have all of the options that are available to us [regionally],” she said, giving reassurance that treatment is available locally.

Dr. Osborne ended the segment with a strong message of encouragement for women experiencing symptoms.

“If you feel like your period is controlling your life-that’s not normal. Talk to your doctor. We can help.”

Music Festival Performers Honour Memory of Slain Teen Janelika Romney

By: Spokesman Newsroom

BASSETTERE, St. Kitts (Monday 15th July 2025)-Amidst the energetic performances and feel-good atmosphere of the 25th Annual St. Kitts Music Festival, a solemn moment gripped patrons on night three (Saturday 28th June 2025) as performers paused to pay heartfelt tribute to the late 15-year-old Janelika Romney.

The teen's lifeless body was discovered on June 27th in the White Gate area-ten days after she was reported missing.

Two songstresses Abena Amory of Nevis and Virgil Hodge of St. Kitts led moving musical tributes during their individual sets at the Warner Park Cricket Stadium venue, each using their voice to honour the teen's memory and highlight the tragedy that has deeply affected the Federation.

With images of Janelika on the stage screens, Abena Amory delivered a soul-stirring rendition of 'Rise Up' by American singer Andra Day. The emotional choice conveyed both sorrow and a powerful call for resilience and togetherness as the nation mourns.

Virgil Hodge's performance saw her inviting the crowd to raise their phone lights in remembrance.

"...this week, we lost a young lady...which shook our nation", she told the crowd, before performing Luciano's "In This Together," calling for compassion and solidarity.

Via a social media post, she shared her sentiments: "Singing 'In This Together' by Luciano sent chills through my entire body as I thought about the tragic loss of Janelika Romney. May her soul rest in eternal peace."

She noted messages expressing the impact of her tribute. One noted: "I liked how you paid tribute to that young girl that lost her life." while another added: "That performance gave me chills."

While the show's curtain closer Jamaican reggae star Romain Virgo did not directly reference the incident, his powerful delivery of "Dutty Man" during the early hours of Sunday, 29th June, resonated strongly with the audience.

The hard-hitting lyrics of the song-which condemns predatory behaviour toward underage girls-struck a deep emotional chord with many in light of the circumstances surrounding Janelika's death.

"I want everyone to represent once more... take out your phones, take out your lighters, light dem up in St. Kitts Music Festival right now; we're saving the children of this world... I'm looking in the crowd... light dem up!" Romain Virgo called out during his performance.

The crowd erupted, singing along passionately as he belted out the third verse:

"Unoo fi talk up, talk up!
If unoo know dem thing yah ah gwan!
No badda wait til it too late
Alright now we fi sound the alarm..."

The chorus followed with even greater force:

"Yuh dutty man
Leave the people pickney dem alone
It's a disgrace, man...
You're just a waste man..."

One emotional patron shared with this media house: "That is one of my favourite songs, but hearing it at that time was very emotional for me. I cried. I got chills thinking about Janelika. That song is a very powerful one that society needs to pay attention to."

Other entertainers on that night's line-up saw Jennifer Hudson, Arya Starr and Christopher Martin.

A Farewell Letter to My Brothers & Sisters of St. Kitts and Nevis

From the Ambassador of the Republic of China (Taiwan)

My dear Kittitian and Nevisian brothers and sisters,

After seven and a half unforgettable years on these shores, the time has come for me to say farewell - not as a stranger leaving, but as a friend returning home, carrying the spirit of your islands in my heart.

St. Kitts and Nevis has been the longest and most meaningful posting of my diplomatic career. From my first days as Counselor, through my years as Deputy Head of Mission, to these past four years as Ambassador, I have had the unique privilege of growing alongside your nation. Like a long-distance run up Brimstone Hill, it has been both challenging and deeply rewarding - a journey of endurance, vision, and shared purpose.

This land has taught me the beauty of persistence. My daily morning jogs - often accompanied by the rising sun and the sound of waves - reminded me each day of the quiet strength and hope that lives in every corner of this Federation. You, the people of St. Kitts and Nevis, have shown me that even in the face of global adversity, we can move forward with dignity, unity, and faith.

Together, we weathered the storm of COVID-19, supporting each other through the darkest days. We then rose with renewed energy: launching initiatives for solid waste management, digital identity programs, renewable energy, women’s empowerment projects, mental health services and layer chicken breeder farm and hatchery.

Also, we celebrated the design of the JNF Climate Smart Hospital, the completion of the Malcolm Guishard Recreational Park in Nevis, and the compassion of our Taiwan Medical Team from the Taipei Veterans General Hospital, which offered free clinics across the islands.

One of the most rewarding responsibilities was nurturing the bridge of education between our peoples. Over 90 Kittitian and Nevisian students have received Taiwan scholarships under my watch, and I know they will return to serve your country with knowledge, confidence, and pride. Our Mandarin language programs continue to open new doors, and I hope many more will discover the value of learning and cultural exchange.

It was my great honor to host Taiwan Foreign Minister Lin Chia-lung’s first visit last year to witness the opening of the chicken farm and hatchery in Bayford; to welcome Minister Joseph Wu’s special envoy delegation in celebration of the 40th anniversary of diplomatic ties between our two nations in 2023; and most memorably, to accompany President Tsai Ing-wen during her 2019 state visit. President Tsai was the first Taiwan President to set foot on the island of Nevis, where she attended the groundbreaking ceremony for the Pinney’s Beach Park Project - an inspiring moment that reflected Taiwan’s genuine connection to all parts of the Federation.

Much like your local rum, aged to perfection under the Caribbean sun, our bilateral friendship has only grown richer and more refined with time. And like a tree bearing mangoes and coconuts - rooted deeply yet generous to all - our relationship continues to nourish both our peoples, season after season.

My dear brothers and sisters, as I prepare to leave, I wish to thank you - from government partners to grassroots community leaders, from students to civil servants, from business owners to everyday citizens. You welcomed me into your lives with openness and respect. You made me feel at home.

My hope for St. Kitts and Nevis is as steady as my heartbeat during a long run: that your democracy stays vibrant, your youth continue to dream boldly, and your nation remains a beacon of peace, sustainability and innovation in the Caribbean and the world.

This is not goodbye, but see you again. I may be leaving physically, but my bond with this land will endure. Taiwan will always stand with St. Kitts and Nevis - as a partner, a friend, and a family.

With heartfelt gratitude and lasting affection,

Sincerely yours,

Michael Chau-Horng Lin

MOFA thanks Pope Leo XIV for extending sympathies to Taiwan

Publication Date: July 18, 2025 | twitter share icon Copy link icon A-A+

The Ministry of Foreign Affairs expresses appreciation July 17 to Pope Leo XIV for extending sympathies to Taiwan in the aftermath of Typhoon Danas. (MOFA)

Prayers offered by Pope Leo XIV for those in Taiwan affected by Typhoon Danas are deeply appreciated by the government and people, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs said July 17.

The MOFA statement followed remarks made by Holy See Press Office Director Matteo Bruni July 16 that the pope had been praying after learning about the casualties and severe damage caused by the typhoon and had instructed the Office of Papal Charities to provide concrete aid to the people of Taiwan.

According to the MOFA, Foreign Minister Lin Chia-lung thanked the pope on behalf of President Lai Ching-te for expressing concern over losses and offering prayers in the spirit of God's love for all people. Lai has instructed the Embassy of the ROC (Taiwan) to the Holy See to convey gratitude to the pope, Lin said, adding that this warmth has transcended the geographical distance between Taiwan and the Vatican to bring the two sides closer together.

The MOFA will continue to cooperate with Pope Leo XIV to promote humanitarian assistance and charity work and jointly advance universal values shared by all humankind, the ministry added.

The Office of Papal Charities is the Holy See department charged with assisting those in need in the name of the pope. (YCH-E)

TDC Group Champions Youth Development Through Football Camp Sponsorship

Just weeks after giving its commitment to the support Youth Cricket on Nevis, the TDC Group has signed on as a corporate sponsor of two impactful summer football initiatives; the MPWR Girls Football Camp and the 3rd Annual Crime Prevention Soccer Camp, taking place during the summer holiday period across St. Kitts.

The MPWR (Empower) Girls Football Camp, spearheaded by National footballer Phoenetia Browne, who developed the programme which is designed exclusively for young girls aged 8 to 16. The camp aims to inspire female participation in football, boost self-confidence, and teach critical life skills through team-building exercises, interactive workshops, and mentorship opportunities.

Meanwhile, the 3rd Annual Crime Prevention Soccer Camp, organised in partnership with the Royal St. Christopher and Nevis Police Force, through Inspector John Bergan, the Camp Coordinator, focuses on steering youth away from anti-social behaviour by offering a safe, structured, and supportive environment. The camp engages over one hundred boys and girls from various communities and combines football training with motivational presentations from law enforcement officers, community leaders, and positive role models.

According to Ms. Xarielle Blanchette, the Acting Client Relations and Marketing Manager, the company’s support of these camps aligns with its core values of community building, youth empowerment, and holistic development.

“We believe in the power of sport to transform lives and create pathways to success. Whether it’s encouraging young girls to break barriers in football or helping at-risk youth develop discipline and confidence, TDC is proud to invest in programmes that create a lasting impact,” Blanchette stated.

Both camps also promote values such as teamwork, discipline, leadership, and respect, while keeping participants engaged in meaningful, fun activities during the summer months. Through its support, TDC continues to foster an inclusive and safer society where all youth regardless of background are given the tools and opportunities to succeed in life.

Autopsy: Janelika Was Stabbed Multiple Times

By: Spokesman Newsroom

BASSETERRE, St. Kitts (Wednesday 17th July 2025) - Twenty (20) days after the body of 15-year-old missing teen Janelika Romney of New Guinea was discovered, the 64-year-old suspect Selwyn ‘Judge’ Pringle of Dieppe Bay has been formally charged with her murder, following the completion of a post-mortem examination conducted on Wednesday 17th July 2025.

According to an official statement issued that day by the Royal St. Christopher and Nevis Police Force (RSCNPF), Pringle has been charged with Murder, in relation to the teen’s death.

It was further reported that: “The offence was committed on June 16th, 2025.”

Of note, the murder charge comes after two earlier charges- Kidnapping and False Imprisonment-which were brought against Mr. Pringle on June 26th, 2025, in connection with the teen’s disappearance.

The police further reported that the murder charge followed the results of a post-mortem examination, which was conducted by Forensic Pathologist Dr. Shanedelle Norford-Harry, supported by resident pathologists Dr. Adrian Nunez Quintana and Dr. Nordica Phillip. The autopsy concluded that multiple stab wounds to the body were the cause of death.

Pringle was charged at the Basseterre Police Station shortly after the findings were confirmed.

The teen’s body was found at approximately 11:30 a.m. on Friday 27th June 2025 in the White Gate area.

Police say Janelika was reported missing by her mother on Tuesday 17th June, and that following the report, officers immediately launched an investigation, conducting interviews and coordinated search efforts.

She was last seen on Monday 16th June, wearing her Verchilds High School uniform.

Emergency services enhanced at the JNF Hospital with employment of new EMTs

Basseterre, St. Kitts, July 15, 2025 (JNF Hospital Communications) — Emergency services at the Joseph Nathaniel France General Hospital have been enhanced significantly with the employment, on Monday July 14, of eleven individuals who had earlier in the year undergone a rigorous eight-week Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) Basic Training.

Three of the new employees will serve as orderlies, six as Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs), and two will serve as Paramedics, which in itself is a groundbreaking achievement for the Institutional-Based Services as it is the first time paramedics have been employed.

“We have never had paramedics in our system before, so it is the first time we are having them as part of the team,” underscored

Director of Health Institutions within the Ministry of Health, Dr Jenson Morton (right), pictured with the new staff members who underwent an eight-week Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) Basic Training in February this year.

Dr Jenson Morton, Director of Health Institutions within the Ministry of Health. “The new employees are going to be distributed throughout the island. However, at the beginning they will be at JNF, but eventually they will be put into the system and anyone can go anywhere.”

The eight-week EMT Basic Training, which started in the middle of February at the JNF General Hospital, was conducted by the In-service Department of the hospital and they were led by Mr Delbert Wilkes, a senior EMT Officer. According to Dr Morton, all eleven were successful with getting their certification.

“So, we are doing a gradual onboarding, and the first six have been onboarded as the EMTs,” observed Dr Morton. “Another three we have onboarded them in the interim as orderlies, but we do have intentions to also eventually onboard them as EMTs in the system as well, but they do have the full training and the full certification, so we are happy that we are seeing the expansion of the department.”

The EMT Department is one of the areas that would have had a few challenges over the years, but it has always been able to perform and to serve the general public. It is hoped that with this recent addition it is something that will strengthen the department even further as the team that has come on board comes with a lot of energy and dynamism, and as Dr Morton put it, “all of them came to the table well qualified.”

The new employees are Mr Nigel Brandy (Orderly), Mr Degen Elliot (Orderly), Mr Yasmani Lopez (Orderly), Mr Rowen Trotman (EMT), Mr Jervon Bonnie (EMT), Mrs Gabrielle Williams (EMT), Ms Saidah Liburd (EMT), Ms Desanna Whyte (EMT), Mr Janover Noa (EMT), Mr Jorge Iribar (Paramedic), and Mr Opealuwa Ostiye (Paramedic).

While the team is largely made up of locals, some came from places as far afield as Dominica, Nigeria, and Cuba. They came in with a wide variety of skills, as among them they have persons that were trained with marines and one that trained as a fireman.

“It doesn’t stop here - they have been certified as EMT Basics,” pointed out Dr Morton. “The six that are coming on as well as the three we intend to later onboard, they are certified as EMT Basics. We do have the full intention to continue their training opportunities for them to become EMT Intermediates, and for them to eventually become paramedics.”

Busiest UK airports raise kiss-and-fly fees, says RAC

More than half of Britain's busiest airports have raised "kiss-and-fly" fees for cars dropping off passengers close to terminals, according to research from the RAC.

The motoring group found 11 out of 20 UK airports had put up prices since last July, with Gatwick, Bristol, Leeds Bradford and Southampton joining Stansted in charging the top rate of £7 to park for a matter of minutes.

In contrast, at nine of the 10 busiest airports in the European Union there are no drop-off fees.

Airports UK, which represents the industry, said all hubs offer free drop-off options further from the terminals, such as "park and ride" facilities where people can leave their car and take a bus to the airport.

London Heathrow, Edinburgh, Birmingham and Liverpool all raised their prices by £1 to £6 for between 10 and 20 minutes.

The RAC also found that Cardiff airport had introduced a fee for the first time, asking £3 for 10 minutes.

Meanwhile, London Luton and Manchester airports are the most expensive on a cost-per-minute basis, the research showed, with drivers paying £5 to stop for five minutes.

Rod Dennis, senior policy officer at the RAC, said: "Drivers are a captive audience and that's why we think airports are so keen on these sorts of fees. But honestly, £7 for a stop that could be no more than 10 minutes does seem a little steep.

"And the fact that these costs keep going up year after year I think is going to be a huge source of frustration for anyone dropping off a friend or loved one this summer."

The cost of passenger drop-offs has risen at most major airports

Minimum cost of dropping off passenger

A bar chart showing the minimum cost of dropping off passengers at selected UK airports, in July 2024 and July 2025, according to analysis by RAC. For Gatwick, the cost has risen from £6 in July 2024 to £7 in July 2025, for Stansted it has stayed at £7, for Bristol it has risen from £6 to £7, for Leeds Bradford it has risen from £6.50 to £7, for Southampton it has risen from £6 to £7, for Heathrow it has risen from £5 to £6, for Edinburgh it has risen from £5 to £6, for Birmingham it has risen from £5 to £6, for Glasgow it has risen from £5.50 to £6, and for Liverpool John Lennon it has risen from £5 to £6.

In the RAC's survey of European airports, hubs including Frankfurt and Paris Charles de Gaulle charged nothing. Only Schipol in the Netherlands asked for €2.50 (£2.17) to kiss-and-fly.

Karen Dee, chief executive of Airports UK, said: "Where fees are charged, this helps airports manage and reduce congestion, noise, carbon emissions and air pollution for local communities, something that they are mandated to do by the Government and local authorities.

"These charges are a part of the airport business model and help enable the provision of the widest variety of flights from the airport."

London City airport was the only one on the list which charges no fee.

A spokesperson for Gatwick, said: "The drop off charge helps to limit the number of cars and reduces congestion at the entrance to our terminals and funds a number of sustainable transport initiatives."

It added that holders of a Blue Badge, which is a parking permit for people with disabilities or health conditions affecting mobility, remain exempt from the charge.

Birmingham, Edinburgh, Heathrow, Liverpool, and Southampton also said Blue Badge holders remain exempt from the fees.

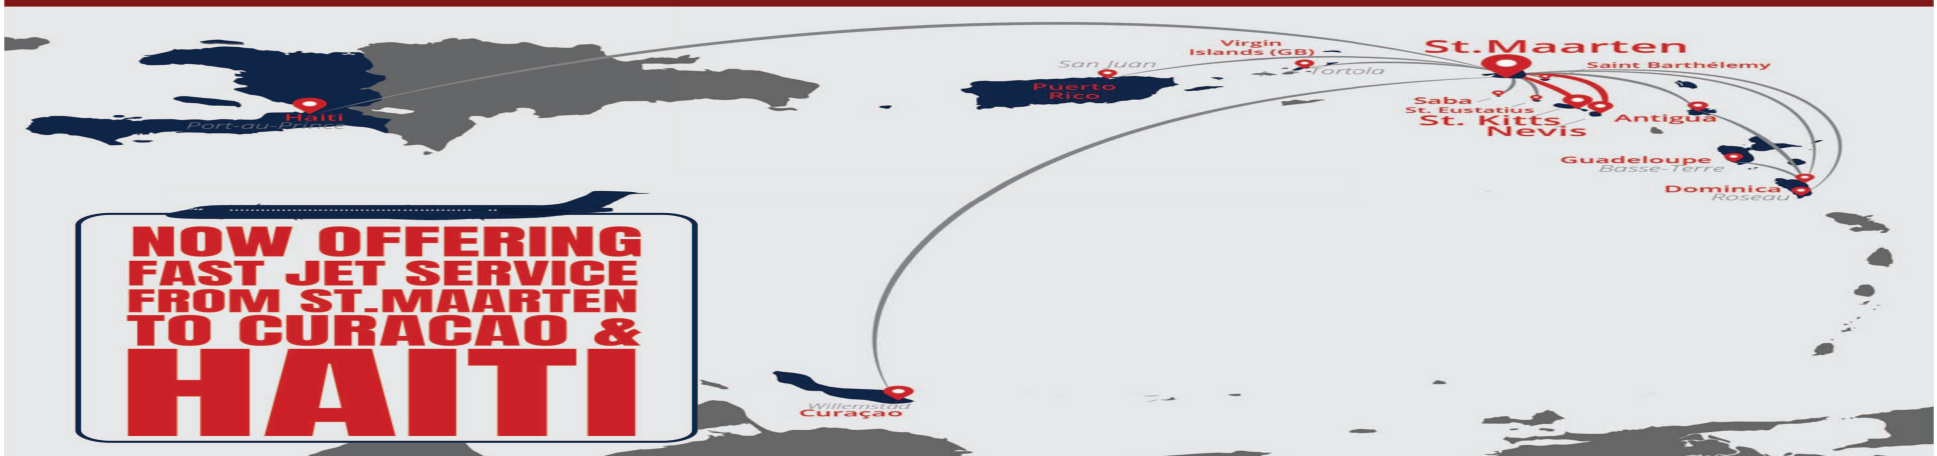

Leeds Bradford lets Blue Badge holders use the pick-up and drop-off area for an extended time of 60 minutes for the same £7 charge.

On lifting its kiss-and-fly prices, a spokesperson for Southampton, said: "All of the funds generated through our parking facility are reinvested into the airport and play an important role in securing new routes for the region."

The BBC has contacted other airports for comment.

Wig ban only lasts a day in Senegal theatre after backlash

Wigs are ever-popular in Senegal - as sported here by supermodel Naomi Campbell at a recent fashion show in Dakar

A sudden and swiftly reversed ban on wigs, hair extensions, and skin-lightening products at an iconic theatre in Senegal's capital, Dakar, has ignited a widespread public backlash - laying bare deep tensions around identity, gender politics, and cultural nationalism in the West African nation.

The internal memo was stamped by the national culture ministry and issued on Monday by Serigne Fall Gueye, director of the Grand Theatre de Dakar.

He said the move was to "promote Pan-African values" and protect the institution's cultural image.

But critics accused Gueye of policing women's bodies under the guise of cultural pride, and the ban was reversed the following day.

Feminist groups and civil society leaders said the memo reflected broader concerns about gender inequality in Senegal, especially given the low number of women in President Bassirou Diomaye Faye's administration - four out of 25 - and the removal of the Ministry of Women.

Many social media users criticised the ban as sexist, invasive, and paternalistic.

The controversy was further complicated by Serigne Fall Gueye's own political background. Before being appointed to the Grand Theatre in early 2024, GuÃ"ye was a prominent figure in Pastef - the ruling party known for its anti-colonial, pan-Africanist rhetoric.

At the time, he led the party's artistic and cultural commission, championing a return to what he called "authentic African values".

Critics fear that Gueye's personal ideology is now bleeding into what should be a neutral public entity.

"This isn't about wigs or skin," political analyst Fatoumata Ba tells the BBC.

"It's about a broader power play - using state institutions to impose a particular version of identity, while silencing or sidelining anyone who doesn't conform."

Braids using extensions - as seen here on Senegalese designer Adama Paris - are a very popular style

One of the most widely shared responses came from Henriette Niang KandÃ©, a feminist analyst and public intellectual, who questioned the logic and intent behind the ban in a viral social media post, saying:

"As for [hair] grafts and wigs, should we remind this director that these are aesthetic choices, sometimes economical, often practical? Are we forbidding men from shaving their heads to hide baldness? From wearing false collars to lengthen their necks?"

Supporters of the now-cancelled ban, though in the minority, argue that the director's intention was rooted in cultural pride, not oppression. GuÃ"ye himself defended the memo as part of a broader mission to "restore African dignity and identity", particularly in the arts sector, which he believes has been overly influenced by Eurocentric beauty standards.

Yet critics say such policies reduce cultural pride to physical appearance - while ignoring deeper systemic issues.

"If you truly want to affirm African identity," sociologist Mame Diarra Thiam tells the BBC, "start with language, education, economic justice - not banning weaves and skin [lightening] cream".

By Tuesday, facing mounting pressure, Serigne Fall GuÃ"ye was forced to reverse the ban, citing public misunderstanding and reiterating his commitment to the theatre's mission. But the damage had already been done.

It has exposed growing discontent with Pastef founder and Prime Minister Ousmane Sonko among the urban youth and progressive civil society, who supported him in the 2024 elections but now feel betrayed by his government's perceived conservatism and centralisation of power.

At its core, the wig and bleaching ban at the Grand ThÃ©Ã¢tre was not just about aesthetics - it was about who gets to define cultural authenticity, and at what cost.

In a country where skin-lightening products remain popular despite known health risks, and where women's appearance is often subject to moral scrutiny, the debate is far from superficial. It touches on post-colonial identity, gender inequality, economic necessity, and personal freedom.

For now, the ban is gone - but the broader debates it sparked remain very much alive.

Cole Palmer Arrives To Hero's Welcome In St. Kitts

Football star celebrates FIFA Club Cup win with his family in St. Kitts; his first visit to the Caribbean island where his grandfather was born Basseterre, St. Kitts (16 July 2025) - Chelsea and England footballer, Cole Palmer, arrived to a hero's welcome in St. Kitts last night, fresh from lifting the trophy with his fellow Chelsea team mates at the FIFA Club World Cup final in New York on Sunday.

The Caribbean island holds a special place in Palmer's heart, as the birthplace of his grandfather, Sterry Palmer. He proudly wears the flag of St. Kitts and Nevis - alongside the England flag - on his football boots to honour his family's roots. The gesture has delighted Kittitians, who have taken Palmer into their hearts, with his "cold" goal celebration copied by schoolchildren across the island.

The Deputy Prime Minister of St. Kitts and Nevis, Dr. Hon. Geoffrey Hanley, and the Minister of Tourism, Hon. Marsha T. Henderson, were on hand to greet the football star on arrival at the airport and, alongside a troupe of traditional Masquerade performers, Palmer and his family were given an authentic Kittitian welcome.

The trip, which marks the first time the 23-year-old has visited St. Kitts, is an opportunity for Palmer to explore the lush and enchanting island with his father and grandfather, in a special moment for the family.

Cole Palmer said: "Landing in St. Kitts off the back of winning the Club World Cup felt really special. It's where my grandad's love for football started. The island's beautiful and really chilled. I can't wait to explore the mountains, rainforest and sea - and to try out the food!"

The Prime Minister of St. Kitts and Nevis, Hon. Dr. Terrance Drew said: "Cole Palmer's visit to St. Kitts and Nevis is a powerful reminder of the strength and pride of our diaspora. His presence and mentorship will inspire the next generation to believe that global success is possible, no matter where you come from. We are proud to welcome him home and deeply grateful for his commitment to our young people and to the development of sports in our Federation."

The Minister of Tourism for St. Kitts and Nevis, Hon. Marsha T. Henderson, said: "It's an honour to welcome Cole Palmer and his family to St. Kitts. The Palmers already have a special connection to the island and that will only grow as they spend time exploring our lush rainforests, picturesque mountains and stunning waters, and savouring our rich culture and cuisine."

"After Cole's heroic performance at the FIFA Club World Cup, St. Kitts is the perfect place to enjoy a relaxing break and reconnect with family - vibrant yet uncrowded, with a vibe that is a mix of adventure and zen. We hope this will be the first of many visits for him."

West Indies Squad named For Australia T20I Series

- West Indies name 16-member squad for T20I series against Australia, featuring first-time T20 call-ups Jewel Andrew and Jediah Blades.
- Five-match T20I showdown set for July 20-28 at Sabina Park, Jamaica and Warner Park, St. Kitts, as West Indies aim to regain winning form at home and continue preparations for the 2026 T20 World Cup.
- Head Coach Daren Sammy emphasizes continuity, strategy, and momentum, with a squad built to refine West Indies’ explosive brand of cricket and climb the international rankings.

KINGSTON, Jamaica - Cricket West Indies (CWI) today announced the 16-member squad for the upcoming five-match T20 International (T20I) Series against Australia, to be played from July 20-28 at Sabina Park in Jamaica and Warner Park in St. Kitts.

The squad features the core group of players who secured a recent series win against Ireland, along with exciting newcomers Jewel Andrew and Jediah Blades earning maiden T20 call-ups.

Andrew, a highly regarded batting prospect and back-up wicketkeeper, has impressed with his intent and range against spin bowling. At just 18, he is seen as one of the region’s brightest prospects and will be eager to make his mark on the international stage.

Left arm seamer Blades who made his international debut against Bangladesh in 2024, was one of the shining lights during the inaugural West Indies Breakout League where he took most of his wickets in the powerplay.

Shai Hope will continue to lead the side as captain, with seasoned campaigners like Jason Holder, Akeal Hosein, and Rovman Powell also named in the line-up.

Looking forward to the five match T20I series, Sammy said the focus remains on improving West Indies’ ranking and building towards what will be a competitive T20I World Cup in India and Sri Lanka next year.

“Our goals and strategic plans are aligned to winning the T20 World Cup in 2026. We have continuity in the squad from the previous series and as a unit we will continue to fine tune our style and brand ahead of the World Cup.”

Sammy added that the team will be looking to reconsolidate a winning record at home.

“Our previous two T20 series at home we were on the wrong end of the results but starting against Australia, we want to regain our form at home as we build momentum into next year’s World Cup with our exciting and dynamic group of players.”

West Indies Squad for T20I Series vs Australia:

Shai Hope (Captain)	Alzarri Joseph
Jewel Andrew	Brandon King
Jediah Blades	Evin Lewis
Roston Chase	Gudakesh Motie
Matthew Forde	Rovman Powell
Shimron Hetmyer	Andre Russell
Jason Holder	Sherfane Rutherford
Akeal Hosein	Romario Shepherd

West Indies’ Russell to retire from internationals

Andre Russell appeals for a wicket - Image source,Getty Images
Andre Russell has played 141 matches for West Indies since making his debut in 2010

Mike Peter
BBC Sport Journalist

West Indies all-rounder Andre Russell will retire from international cricket after two matches of the upcoming T20 series against Australia.

The big-hitting batter and seamer will play two farewell games at his home ground of Sabina Park in Jamaica.

Russell has played one Test, 56 ODIs and 84 T20s for West Indies, winning the T20 World Cup in 2012 and 2016.

He struck 2,114 runs in those appearances, with 157 fours and 147 sixes, and took 132 wickets.

“I want to finish my international career on a high while being a role model for the next generation of cricketers coming out of the Caribbean,” said Russell.

The 37-year-old has only played in the 20-over format since 2019, and retires with less than a year to go until the 2026 World Cup.

Cricket West Indies say Russell has been “selected on merit” for his final two appearances.

“Words cannot explain what it meant. To represent the West Indies has been one of the proudest achievements in my life,” Russell added.

“When I was a kid, I did not expect to get to this level, but the more you start to play and get to love the sport, you realise what you can achieve.”

Russell is the second senior player to retire from the West Indies set-up in recent months, after Nicholas Pooran stepped away in June, aged 29.

He is a fixture on the T20 franchise circuit, playing 561 games in the shortest format in games around the world.

The matches at Sabina Park on 20 and 22 July are followed by three more fixtures in St Kitts and Nevis, with the last game on 28 July.
